

Valley District Task Force Formed

Gov. Warren P. Knowles today initiated a study of administrative district boundaries in the Fox Valley area by a task force from the Valley.

The governor appointed John P. Reeve, Appleton, to head the task force.

Knowles also appointed Raymond Vlasin, vice chancellor of the University of Wisconsin Green Bay, as assistant chairman of the task force.

At the same time he challenged 350 local officials and citizens to face the future with a broad outlook toward change in local government.

Knowles was the first speaker in The Post-Crescent's day-long public forum on "Planning for the Future of the Fox Valley." The forum was held at the Pioneer Inn, Oshkosh.

Facing Stresses
The Valley faces enormous stresses and strains of urban growth in the next generation, the governor said, and the state must reach out to help through proper administrative districts.

But local governments also must reach out beyond themselves to cooperate, in areawide administration of traditionally local services, he said.

"Indeed, during the next 30 years quite a few local government services must inevitably seek an areawide context for their administration," he said.

"The time has come when we should openly discuss and debate the type of governmental mechanism by which such areawide services can best be planned and administered."

Knowles emphasized that any new areawide structure of government must be subject to democratic controls and accountable to the people.

He warned that local governments must look for new mechanisms themselves or become subject to state or federal action.

"I hope and pray that Wisconsin will not be forced to the statewide administration of traditionally local functions," he added. "But this can be avoided only by maintenance of a strong system of local government which is capable of adjusting to changes as they occur."

"Over the next 30 years waves of urban growth will descend upon you," the governor said. "Depending upon how it is absorbed, it can either be a major asset or a destructive force."

Specifically, the governor warned that the new Milwaukee-Green Bay interstate highway should not be lined with hazardous ribbon commercial development, with industry and mercantile establishments strung along the entire length of the highway.

The governor said this is not good planning.

"We don't want another megalopolis like the Milwaukee-Racine-Kenosha area."

Knowles pointed out that the Valley's problems are not yet as

By the year 2,000 the population of the five-county area from Fond du Lac to Green Bay will jump from about 50,000 to nearly 700,000 a gain of 45 per cent, Knowles predicted.

1,000 Officials

At the same time, within the five counties (Brown, Outagamie, Calumet, Winnebago and Fond du Lac) there are 130 separate local governments. And 1,000 elected local officials.

"Will there ultimately be 130 separate building codes," the governor asked. "Or if not one for each jurisdiction, will there be at least dozens of separate and conflicting codes?"

The governor warned that there must be areawide administration and agreement on zoning practices, sewage treatment and interceptor systems, storm water drainage, water supply, refuse disposal, air pollution control, public health administration and mass transportation, among others.

To point out the crippling inability of local government to

War Protests Across U.S. Start Peacefully

Schools, Cities, Churches
Scenes of Mourning for Dead, Demands for Peace

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Vietnam Moratorium Day demonstrations began generally peacefully today on college campuses and city streets, in churches and commuter terminals in many areas of the nation.

Lists of Americans killed in Vietnam were read in several places—ranging from the steps of the administration building at Ohio State University in Columbus to Trinity Church in New York's Wall Street financial district.

New York City's Hall was draped in black and purple mourning in accordance with Mayor John V. Lindsay's proclamation of the day as a day of observance. Both Lindsay and his Democratic opponent in the mayoral race, Mario Procaccino, attended special church services, two of hundreds of such observances.

Black Armbands
Many persons wore the black armbands and small blue and white "Vietnam Moratorium" buttons urged by sponsors of the demonstration.

Students handed out moratorium and peace literature at Cambridge's Harvard Square, rallying point for a march to Boston Common. A 70-foot banner reading "Peace" was stretched across one street.

Economist John K. Galbraith, a professor at Harvard University, told a rally of about 1,000 persons at the Harvard Business school he thought ending the war now would bring the U.S. military establishment under control.

Among those listening to Galbraith was George Cabot Lodge, son of Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U.S. peace negotiator in Paris. The younger Lodge is an instructor at the Business school. Opposition to the moratorium, surfaced in many areas.

U.S. Flags
Merritt H. Taylor Jr., president of the Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co., draped his buses and trolleys with U.S. flags to express "a feeling of patriotism."

"I just think it's time the unheard element makes itself heard. We ought to stand behind our country and stop complaining so much," he said.

Opponents of the demonstration also had urged motorists to drive with their headlights on and cars with lights burning dotted roads and highways.

Michael Maye, president of the Uniformed Firefighters Association in New York City, said all flags on firehouses were flying at full staff and would stay that way—in defiance of Mayor Lindsay's directive that city flags were to go at half staff after noon.

Hourly Prayers

In Washington, clergymen at the National Cathedral offered prayers for peace every hour on the hour. A plan to toll the cathedral bells for five minutes on the hour from 8 a.m. to midnight was abandoned.

Campus demonstrations took a variety of forms. Students at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge planted small white crosses on the Reserve Officers Training Corps parade grounds. They said the crosses symbolized the nearly 40,000 Americans killed in Vietnam.

Stand in Snow

Overnight vigils were held at several campuses, including 34,000-student Temple University in Philadelphia where 200 students remained sitting at dawn out of 500 who began the demonstration at midnight. By midday, between 700 and 1,000 students

Quiet Vigils Mark Day Of Protest in Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Protestors against the war in Vietnam came to the strongholds of government today to proclaim their opposition with speeches and marches and a silent candlelight vigil in front of the White House.

As a prelude, the House of Representatives stayed in session past 11 p.m. Tuesday while members on both sides of the question emotionally debated the American involvement. Young people, quiet and well-behaved, many wearing black armbands, packed the galleries.

Hanoi Endorsement

President Nixon had said he would not be influenced by the demonstrations, but a Hanoi endorsement of the Oct. 15 observance brought a quick response from the administration.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, after conferring with the President, denounced the Hanoi message "a shocking intrusion into the affairs of the American people by an enemy power."

The Vietnam Moratorium committee replied that "it is regrettable that the administration would seize this straw in an attempt to discredit the patriotism of those millions of Americans who sincerely desire peace."

The open letter from North Vietnam Premier Pham Van Dong was relayed through Paris and was read to both the House and Senate. Addressed to "Dear American friends," it began: "Your struggle is a noble reflection of the legitimate and urgent demand of the American people."

Moratorium day events in the capital included speeches at various sites by senators and representatives, a rally at Selective Service headquarters, speeches on campuses and even a children's program complete with dove-decorated, helium-filled balloons.

Evening Rally

The windup was to be in early evening with a rally at the Washington monument, a speech by the widow of Dr. Martin Luther King, and a silent candlelight march a short distance to the White House.

At a Tuesday night fund raising dinner for the Eisenhower

College, President Nixon heard Gov. Ronald Reagan of California denounce the demonstrations.

"Parades are held today in the name of peace," the governor said, "but some of those who march carry the flag of a nation that has killed almost 40,000 of our young men."

However, the debate in the House was characterized by a lack of name-calling on both sides.

Twenty-three members were prepared to speak up to an hour each—as long as the House was in session. Their effort survived two quorum calls—and the last, at 11:17 p.m., saw 210 members present—only seven short of the required majority.

"Obviously I would have felt better if we could have made the physical and spiritual sacrifice of staying up all night," said Rep. Andrew Jacobs, D-Ind., afterward, "but those around the country who have felt that they are not represented in government must feel better now."

"Tonight, the House said you can discuss this within the system and that's the important thing. When the House voted for the basic principle of free speech, that's the cool thing."

Tarr Bill for Municipalities Killed, Revived

Senate Decides To Have Another
Long-Term Study

MADISON (AP)—The Senate voted Tuesday to kill the crucial Tarr task force proposal for helping municipalities with tax problems, then revived the measure while Republicans called for still another long-term study.

The Senate's GOP leadership continued to say it has enough votes to kill the bill whenever its opponents please.

"But even those who want to kill the bill recognize that there is a problem, and want an interim study," Sen. Ernest Kasper, R-Sheboygan said.

Koppler, the Senate majority leader, said legislators want the Legislative Council to conduct a study and present a report in 1971.

The Tarr study group, having worked on the matter for 18 months, is calling for a new formula under which the state shares tax revenue with cities.

Proponents of the Tarr plan say it would reduce the tax discrepancies between communities, and would lift much of the burden of local property taxes.

Mayors of large cities have been urging rural legislators to yield and support the plan.

Fifteen Republicans and three Democrats voted to kill the bill, with five Republicans and seven Democrats voting in favor of the plan.

Sources said a Republican caucus recommended killing the Tarr plan to make way for a new study.

Crime Testimony Wanted New Jersey Orders Arrest of Sinatra

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — An arrest warrant has been issued for Frank Sinatra, who failed to heed a subpoena to an investigation on organized crime. An aide to Sinatra said he was out of the country.

The warrant, enforceable only in New Jersey, was issued Tuesday at the request of the State Investigation Commission.

In Beverly Hills, Calif., a spokesman for the singer-actor said Tuesday, "Mr. Sinatra left New York City this morning for the Caribbean and at present is unaware of the situation. We are trying to locate him now and I am certain that when he is advised of the matter he will have some comment."

The SIC said Sinatra had been served with a subpoena June 25 in connection with an investigation of organized crime throughout the state. At that time, Sinatra was aboard his yacht off Highlands, N.J.

He was ordered to appear at a private hearing Aug. 19, but his Los Angeles attorney, Milton Rudin, obtained a month's delay.

Aboard Yacht
The SIC said it had not heard from Rudin or Sinatra since, and Superior Court Judge Frank J. Kingfield issued the warrant, charging the entertainer with contempt.

If convicted, he would face up to six months in jail.

Sinatra is a native of Hoboken

and has frequently visited the state.

He was forced to sell his interests in two Nevada resorts in 1963 when state officials charged that he had been host to a Chicago underworld figure.

Sinatra once owned 50 per cent of the Cal-Neva Lodge in Lake Tahoe and 9 per cent of the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas. He sold his interests, which he said were worth $5 million, after the State Gaming Control Board recommended revocation of gambling licenses at the two resorts.

State officials said Sinatra had entertained Sam Giancana, who was officially nongrata in Nevada.

According to New Jersey court papers, Sinatra was offered a standard $2 witness fee and a $2 travel allowance. "He would not take the money," court papers said.

Milwaukee Court Told to Review Groppi Case Soon

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Supreme Court has ordered the Milwaukee County Court not to wait until next week to review one of the charges against the Rev. James E. Groppi stemming from welfare demonstrations at the state Capitol.

After Groppi was arrested while leading Milwaukee welfare recipients on a 90-mile protest march to Madison last month, County Judge F. Ryan Duffy Jr. issued a warrant, citing Groppi for possible breach of probation terms.

Duffy, having refused to release Groppi from Milwaukee County Jail on bond, scheduled a hearing for next Monday. But the Supreme Court told Duffy to hold the hearing Thursday afternoon.

Defense Motions
Meanwhile, the high court rejected defense motions for release of the Roman Catholic priest. The motions had sought a number of writs, involving habeas corpus and mandamus.

Groppi led about 2,000 students and welfare demonstrators into the Assembly chambers Sept. 29 for an 11-hour sit-in, and was charged in a Dane County warrant with disorderly conduct.

White House View

Communists Use Moratorium

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and GOP Senate Leader Hugh Scott, both speaking with White House blessings, say the communists already are exploiting today's Vietnam moratorium movement.

And Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, linked the demonstrations to left wing groups and a "world peace conference" in East Berlin last June 25.

"The vice president called upon leaders of the moratorium to repudiate a letter of support from Hanoi."

Agnew said the letter from Pham Van Dong, premier of North Vietnam, was "a shocking intrusion into the affairs of the American people by an enemy power."

Recent Message
Scott got a copy of the letter from Bryce Harlow, President Nixon's chief congressional liaison man. The Pennsylvania Senator said he was sure all Americans, including the demonstrators, would resent Hanoi's message.

Allott would not disclose the source of his allegations, but he said "the basic strategy" for today's demonstration was shaped at a world peace conference in East Berlin. "That particular conference was communist oriented," Allott said.

Although Allott said moratorium organizers were at that meeting, he named no one.

He also said the Socialist Workers party, the Progressive Labor party, the Youth International party and the Students for a Democratic Society were involved in initial planning of the moratorium.

Scott said the letter indicates Hanoi feels it is gaining because of the protests. He said North Vietnam "is already misreading the demonstration and seeking to exploit it."

"The dissent is proper," Scott said. "People have a right to do it."

But at the same time, he said he was warning in advance that the communists would capitalize on the protests.

Kara Turns Into Full Hurricane

MIAMI (AP) — Picking up strength as it moved away from the U.S. mainland, storm Kara developed into a hurricane today as it sped eastward into the Atlantic after passing up a predicted landfall along North Carolina's Outer Banks.

Kara began growing early today after ending a drifting maneuver that had stalled its progress toward the mainland, and became a hurricane shortly before dawn.

The National Hurricane Center said top winds were about 75 miles an hour—minimal for a hurricane—but probably would intensify.

At 6 a.m., the hurricane was near Latitude 32 north, Longitude 73.5 west or about 250 miles south-southeast of Cape Hatteras and about 500 miles west of Bermuda.

"May your fall offensive succeed splendidly," the North Vietnamese premier wrote. The letter repeated the communist demand for total U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam.

Dubcek Quit Voluntarily, Party Claims

Written Agreement To Withdraw Read at Communist Caucus

PRAGUE (AP) — The Czechoslovak Communist party announced today that reformers Alexander Dubcek and Josef Smrkovsky agreed to their ouster from the presidency and vice presidency of the federal parliament and also from its presidium.

“Comrades Dubcek and Smrkovsky have expressed in writing their agreement with their recall from the leading functions in parliament and also from their functions in its presidium,” Rude Pravo, the party newspaper, reported.

It said the announcement was made Tuesday to a caucus of Communist deputies.

The caucus unanimously approved a draft resolution canceling the parliament’s statements last year condemning the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia and praising the public resistance to it.

Soothe Public
Dalibor Hanes, chairman of the upper house, is in line to succeed Dubcek. Dubcek was given the parliamentary presidency last April to soothe public opinion when he was replaced by Gustav Husak as head of the Communist party. But when Dubcek’s popularity did not fall off, the party purged him from its ruling presidium last month and ordered his removal from the parliamentary post. Smrkovsky was ousted from the party central committee last month.

Meanwhile, Josef Kempny, a rising star in the party hierarchy, was appointed a member of the State Defense Council, replacing Stanislav Razl whom he had earlier succeeded as Czech premier.

Kempny, 47, succeeded Dubcek on the party presidium in September.

Recess Brings Capitol Protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 400 persons, mainly students, staged a spontaneous demonstration on the steps of the Capitol early today after the House rejected a move to stay in session through the night as part of Vietnam Moratorium Day.

The demonstrators clapped and cheered when Rep. James H. Scheuer, D-N.Y., told them: “I hope and pray the President will be sensitive to the consensus that’s going to roar across the country from Maine to California.”

After Scheuer’s talk, all but about 75 demonstrators remained to brave the chilly air. They chanted: “Stay all night. Stay all night.”

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union’s biggest week in space got even bigger Tuesday with the opening of a new program of solar research, keyed to an unmanned satellite, while the three manned spaceships sent up earlier continued their, troika flight.

The Soviets apparently are carrying out two unrelated space operations simultaneously, and one of them—the three-man flight—is among the most complicated operations ever undertaken.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said the group flight of Soyuz 6, Soyuz 7 and Soyuz 8 “continues successfully” and the seven cosmonauts “feel fine.” There was also the usual report of morning exercises, medical checkup and checking of instruments.

The announcement said the day’s schedule called for “observations of separate regions of the earth’s surface in mountainous areas, to watch the distribution of cloud and vortex formations over the Pacific and Atlantic oceans, to explore the reflecting factor of tracts of forest and desert regions.”

Space Platform
But once again there was no word on plans to link up and weld together at least two of the spacecraft, the exercise in construction of a space platform that is believed to be the chief purpose of the flight.

Tass in another report late Tuesday dubbed the Soyuz crews “cosmonaut-assemblymen” and stressed the importance of their space welding tasks, which it noted would be extremely difficult because weightlessness in space requires even the simplest movements.

“The assembly of space constructions, their repair and other work will necessitate the joining of metals,” Tass said. “To fulfill these jobs, the cosmonaut-assemblyman must stay outside the ship for long periods of time.

Welding Metals
“Quite naturally, weightlessness will complicate the fulfillment of some, even the most elementary operations, especially those requiring revolving movements. That is why the method of joining parts with the help of bolts and nuts is hardly acceptable.”

Dr. Konstantin Feoktistov, the scientist-cosmonaut who was on a three-man space flight in 1964, indicated today that the seven spacemen would not leave an orbiting platform or station in space this time. He told Tass the purpose of the flight “is to accumulate experience that will be very useful in the creation of orbital stations capable of functioning in space for long periods of time.”

Tass said different welding methods will be used, including “electronic beam or plasma arc,” which would give the space welders “the possibility of using a single instrument to both join metals and cut them.”

Meanwhile, on Tuesday the Russians sent up a new unmanned satellite, Intercosmos 1, and said it would be used by radio observatories of East European Communist countries for a large-scale probe into the mysteries of the sun.

The satellite is named after a new body formed to coordinate space experiments of the Soviet Union and its European partners, the Council for International Cooperation in the Field of Exploring and Studying Outer Space, or Intercosmos.

Amendments to Start

Senate Selects $4.9 Million Welfare Proposal for Debate

MADISON (AP) — Opponents of increased welfare spending were given a tentative defeat Tuesday as the Assembly chose a $4.9 million package on which to base its debate of funds for urban and welfare programs.

Amendments increased the $4.9 million proposal’s total price tag to $8.1 million. But none of Tuesday’s voting offered a concrete insight into what the eventual fate of the package would be.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles had asked legislators to consider $33 million in supplements to the 1969-71 budget which he signed in August. Since then, the $4.9 million plan is but one of a half dozen alternate proposals.

Assemblymen chose the $4.9 million package, and began attaching amendments, including $1 million more for aid to families with dependent children (AFDC).

The Assembly vote, 63-36, raises the state’s level of AFDC aid to 25 per cent of the national average, compared with a level of 138 per cent and with 120 per cent in the current budget.

The increase was opposed by Republicans John Shabaz and Kenneth Merkel, members of the Joint Finance Committee who have led opposition to higher welfare spending.

Welfare increases had been a chief demand of demonstrators who began a series of Capitol protest demonstrations Sept. 29 by occupying the Assembly chambers for 11 hours.

Another amendment, approved on a voice vote after assemblymen turned down a motion to reject it 61-38, would raise liquor and beer taxes to help with the urban-welfare package.

The amendment would increase the liquor excise tax 30 per cent to $2.25 a gallon.

The beer tax, $1 a barrel since the 1930s, would be increased to $2, but with the first 10,000 barrels exempt from the increase.

The tentative urban-welfare package includes $4 million for teacher aides and language skill centers in Milwaukee, $3.2 million for Milwaukee’s Marquette Medical School, and the balance for welfare and housing programs.

Under an unrelated amendment, the mandatory school attendance age would be extended to 18 from 16. But students over 16 could attend vocational schools.

Two From Racine Held For Having Marijuana
PRINCETON, Mo. (AP) — Racine, Wis., persons were held on marijuana charges Tuesday after Mercer County authorities said marijuana was found in the trunk of a car.

Dennis Bellgrath, 22, and Miss Gay Raschella, 18, were charged with possession of marijuana. Bond was set at $5,000.

Bellgrath waived a preliminary hearing, and was bound over to Circuit Court for trial. Miss Raschella’s preliminary hearing is Oct. 21.

Lennon Murder Case Closed
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The case of the murder of William Lennon, father of the singing Lennon Sisters, “will be closed,” says Police Lt. Charles Rothert.

Chet W. H. Young, 38, a former mental patient sought in the murder of Lennon on the Marina del Rey golf course Aug. 12, was found dead Saturday in the trunk of a car east of a logging road 24 miles east of Sonoma.

Tuolumne County investigators said Young had shot himself in the chest with a rifle and that the rifle was the one used to kill Lennon.

Task Force Formed For Valley Districts solve areawide and metropolitan problems, the governor described the deepening housing crisis throughout the country.

The governor said Fond du Lac and Manitowish in particular are suffering, primarily due to a shortage of low and moderate income housing.

“More housing must be supplied and local governments territory in the Wolf River basin is bisected by the district boundaries.

In ordering creation of the districts, Knowles vetoed a bill passed by the Legislature giving lawmakers the right to review the boundaries. It now seems likely, however, that the Legislature will override the governor’s veto.

Knowles emphasized that his boundaries are flexible.

“The issues in this area of the state are particularly complex and involve a wide array of special considerations,” he said. “I do not deem it appropriate for hasty decisions to be made about the proposed boundaries.”

Knowles indicated that Reeve would call a meeting of task force members shortly to begin study of the boundary lines.

have an obligation to re-examine their codes and ordinances to remove unnecessary obstacles,” the governor said.

“It is our hope that some local governments will agree to join together in mutual arrangements for the areawide administration of uniform codes relating to housing.”

The Nixon administration’s solution to the crisis is called “Operation Breakthrough,” but it now seems doomed to failure because local governments cannot work together to remove code barriers, he said.

Tarr Proposals
Knowles reiterated the importance of Tarr Task Force proposals for strengthening county government, establishing an urban growth police with a boundary review board and redistributing shared taxes. And he renewed his strong support for the proposals.

Knowles’ task force appointee, John Reeve, is president and chief executive officer of Appleton Coated Paper Co. He is a past president of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, the Valley Council of the Boy Scouts and the Appleton Rotary Foundation. He is a trustee of Lawrence University.

The governor asked Reeve to appoint the members of the task force. He suggested an early meeting of Reeve and representatives of planning agencies in the Valley to discuss task force membership and procedure.

Six-Month Project
Goal of the task force is to reach specific recommendations to administrative district boundaries and report them to the governor within six months, Knowles said.

“I am confident that the various interests will be able to work together constructively on this important assignment,” he added.

“I think the Fox Valley represents the most difficult part of the state for the selection of districts boundaries and regional planning boundaries.”

In August, Knowles ordered the creation of a set of uniform administrative districts. The 12-county east central region, which includes the entire Fox Valley, has been very controversial. Officials of Brown and Fond du Lac counties, at either end of the district, have been openly and strongly critical. They seek to be aligned with counties beyond the District’s lines. So have officials of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, whose

Bishop Sheen Resigns Post In Rochester

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Pope Paul VI has accepted the resignation of the Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen as bishop of the Rochester Roman Catholic Diocese, it was announced today.

Bishop Sheen, 74, will be succeeded by the Rt. Rev. Joseph L. Hogan, 53, pastor of St. Margaret Mary’s Church in Rochester.

In Vatican City, the Vatican announced Pope Paul accepted the resignation of Bishop Sheen for reasons of health.

Bishop Sheen scheduled a mid-morning news conference. Bishop Sheen was installed as the Rochester bishop in December 1966 after serving as auxiliary bishop in the New York diocese.

Bishop Sheen is widely known as a teacher, author and for years conducted religious programs on television and radio.

He began his “Life Is Worth Living” television program in 1951 and for years battled comedian Milton Berle for the TV audience. It was estimated that 30 million persons heard Bishop Sheen on radio or saw him weekly on TV.

Marrying a Millionaire Not Worth the Trouble

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Sidewalk comments by a Pavement Plator:
A common dream among American girls today—and among many young men, for that matter—is the dream of marrying a millionaire.
One wonders why. But if you ask a poor working girl the reason she'd like to marry a millionaire—any millionaire—she looks at you as if you had gone daft and replies:

"Because he's got all that money."
It could be that a millionaire might also have acne, ulcers, athlete's foot, and a cast in his eye. It makes no difference. He's still got all that money.
Of course, when a girl dreams of marrying a millionaire she idealizes him as well as his money. She envisions him as tall, dark and handsome, young, deeply romantic, poetic and generous to a fault. She has the idea that the first thing he will do after they leave the church is to take a bag of gold off his shoulder and divide it into two piles—his and hers.
Slightly Larger
And since he is generous to a fault, he will gallantly see that her pile is slightly larger than his.

The fault with this picture is that it is hardly typical of the average millionaire.
Your run-of-the-mill millionaire is usually middle-aged, partly bald, has a bulgy stomach and is already married to a woman who watches over him and his money like a hungry vulture. Romantic? Pah! Like any other cost accountant, the figures that interest him most are those in a ledger.
Suppose, however, he is still a bachelor. Do you think that, like Prince Charming, he spends his days and nights running around the kingdom trying to fit a glass slipper to a poor but honest sackcloth-clad Cinderella.
Not him. Making money is ordinarily a time-consuming passion in itself. Your ordinary millionaire has no idle hours to spend in vain pursuits. Ask him if he is looking for a poor working girl to marry, and he'll reply:

"Are you out of your mind? I already have one dependent I'm supporting—Uncle Sam. What do I need with another?"
Social Position
Money likes to mate with money. A millionaire sees no logical reason why it isn't as easy for him to marry a rich girl—thus parlaying his fortune—as it is to marry a poor girl with no social position.
Alas, for the fading dreams of the poor working girl. But an even colder-watered truth applies to the poor young man who wants to wed a millionairess.
Even if this dream should come true, it probably would turn into a nightmare. For when a rich woman marries a poor man for his charm she gets the better of the bargain. She gets his charm—but that doesn't mean he gets her money.

A rich woman tends to wear a poor husband as if he were a watchfob. He is a dollar-pecked prisoner of her purse strings, and must beg prettily for his spending money or a new suit. She may give him a bright new sports car, but if that same evening she thinks he pays too much attention to another woman, she can take it back the next morning. And she will.
There is another reason why poor young men and women should cease dreaming of marrying millionaires. The objective of the dream is to be able to live like a millionaire.
But because of taxes and rising prices of penthouses and yachts and limousines, most millionaires no longer can afford to live like millionaires.
If you want to live like a millionaire, you have to set a higher goal—and dream of marrying a multimillionaire.

Welk Refuses to Rehire Singer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "When I tried to take Mr. Welk some blueberry muffins I had baked for him, about eight armed guards came out to stop me."
And, continued Natalie Nevins, nothing else she tried would persuade Lawrence Welk to give her back her singing job.
The bandleader said he fired her because she failed to show up for a band date in Spokane, Wash., and gave no proof of the illness she claimed.
"I told her that we had spent a long time building up our organization and every person in it was very important," Welk told newsmen Monday. "If she couldn't give us a little notice when she couldn't make a performance, then we'd have to let her go."
Miss Nevins had sung with the

Tijuana Closes All Houses of Prostitution
In Cooperation Drive
TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — Shortly after the U.S. government announced Friday that its Operation Intercept to restrict drug traffic would be replaced by Operation Cooperation, all houses of prostitution in Tijuana were closed.
Owners said they were told only that the shutdown was "because of superior orders."
Houses of prostitution do not officially exist in Tijuana and authorities declined comment.
Operation Cooperation was announced as a joint U.S.-Mexican effort to curb narcotics flow across the border, but details of how Mexico plans to cooperate have not been announced.

County Cuts Off Its Nose

Certainly it must ease the minds of Outagamie County taxpayers to know that the county board finance committee members are zealously cutting pecking away at the proposed expenditures for 1970, but they shortsightedly cut in the wrong places, late last week, and they cut off their nose to spite their face.

The committee looked and looked at a 16 per cent increase in the welfare budget, but no matter how hard they looked, they couldn't find a decent place to cut it.

Finally at the height of great frustration they found a $12,000 item for a program called WIN. And they eliminated it.

Then they spotted a small item of $6,500 to help high school dropouts go back and get their diplomas. And they eliminated it.

WIN means Work Incentive Program, and it happens that this is the most realistic, hopeful program to come along in the field of public welfare in years. What it does, stated simply, is to take people off the welfare rolls and put them into productive jobs.

WIN really works, better than any such ever program has before. Through a well-designed process that faces up to the psychological and physical problems of long-term welfare clients, it provides new confidence and new skills. Actually, the $12,000 provides for care of pre-school children for mothers who want to participate in WIN but are tied to their homes. And the child care dollars provided in the county budget are as essential as the federal dollars that pay for training.

U.S. May Learn From USSR Flights

Despite the competitive nature of American and Russian space programs, it appears that the one may indeed be complementing the other.

The latest Soviet launchings indicate that the Russian purpose is to establish a space platform in orbit which may be used later for possible manned flights to the moon or elsewhere. So far the Russians have not demonstrated that they have the rocket capability for direct manned flights to the moon, although their Zond spaceships circled the moon last fall and returned safely to earth. But Luna 15, which probably was supposed to gather up material from the moon's surface and bring it back, crashed instead. And a previous Soyuz flight also crashed, killing the cosmonaut aboard.

Japan Goes to Visit Old Enemies

Japan has become the dominant nation in Asia due to its remarkable economic recovery after World War II. Now it is cautiously expanding the visual signs of its "presence" in the hope that the people of the countries it overran 30 years ago will have forgiven, if not forgotten.

Two years ago Japan at last concluded a trade agreement with the Philippines, where the hatred is still noticeable. Japan has conducted a soft pedal effort to make loans and grants to the underdeveloped Asian countries and the fact that it has not yet contributed the full 1 per cent of its gross national product which it promised to contribute is as much from its caution as from financial reasons.

Now, amazingly, four Japanese destroyers, part of the Maritime Self-Defense Force, have been visiting Asian ports. So far the ships have dropped anchor in several ports of Australia, New Zealand, Indonesia, Ceylon and India. Last week they steamed into Singapore where the British surrendered to the Japanese in 1942 and the Japanese gave up in 1945. Still on

been in operation less than a year in Outagamie County, and already there are a number of pleasing success stories.

Then why in the world would the finance committee pick on WIN, one of the smallest single items in the entire welfare budget? We can only assume that they did not know what they were doing, or that they acted out of sheer desperation. For these are the men who so badly want to reduce the welfare roles, and yet they cut the only program which can do so effectively.

The $6,500 cut in aid to high school dropouts is equally bewildering. No one can get far without a high school diploma these days and massive programs have been launched to try to get young people back into high schools.

The local welfare department has worked hard to get 18 to 20 young people between 18 and 20 back into high school.
Now they are to be told they must drop out again. Perhaps these young people too, and their families, will one day be on the county welfare roles. For they are unprepared for gainful employment.

As a result Outagamie County taxpayers will face an even bigger increase in the welfare budget next year at this time, an increase that will far exceed the $12,000 cut by the finance committee this year.
That increase will go to support the families of men and women who for one more year were tied to the pursestrings of county taxpayers, and for one more year had to do without the kind of help they so badly need.

Though the aim of the current flights — or of any other Soviet flights — was not announced in advance, obviously for fear of disappointment or loss of face in the event of failure, American scientists can only speculate about the purpose. But it is the scientists' widespread belief that the Soviet cosmonauts will weld together two or three spaceships into an orbiting space platform.
America had not planned to put a space platform into orbit until 1972. So, while the successful accomplishment of the present mission will represent a significant first for the Russians, American space probers can also learn by their experience. Presumably, when the Russian flight is over, there will be some announcement about the progress.

But the tour certainly will have far-the Japanese begin to be concerned about overall role in Asia's future.

U.S. Badly Needs Stable Italy, And Italy Badly Needs Our Help

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

Italian Foreign Minister Aldo Moro, here quietly for a White House meeting, is a European statesman intensely pro-American. But he is walking on a slippery, swaying high wire in support of our country in Italian politics.

Anarchy in Italy is on the planning boards in Moscow. Yet, since Charles de Gaulle took France out of NATO, our need for a stabilized Italy is greater than ever.

Italy borders on France, Switzerland and Austria, with West Germany at Austria's rear. It fronts Red Yugoslavia. It flanks Yugoslavia and Red Albania and the Adriatic. It is the key to North Africa and Greece. Classically, the Italians have called the Mediterranean "mare nostrum," "our sea." This country is the logistic center for our entire NATO naval complex in the Mediter-

SEAT OF POWER

A stable Italy as an indispensable seat of American power at the crossroads of the Soviet - threatened Mediterranean is a strategic imperative. In the defense of Western Europe, and therefore of the United States — as the Russians well know — there is no substitute for our needed Italy.

Mild-mannered but battle-hardened Foreign Minister Moro admitted to me that the internal dissatisfactions in his lovely land are real and growing. The gap between the rich north and the poor south, Mr.
Moro laments, remains unbridged. The northern industrial worker's annual income is nearly exactly twice that of his southern brother. And the some pretty cheeky — coming attractions, right across the screen is flashed "suggested for mature audiences."

When a movie house is showing a feature of this sort, usually it is for those 16 or over unless accompanied by an adult.

Can you tell me why a movie of this type is being shown at this time? What about the young teen-age babysitters with nothing more to do than watch TV. Or better yet what about these children who have permission to stay up and watch the movie?

The point is we bought a TV to be enjoyed by every member of the family and regardless of when it is turned on. Is this any better than the pornography we're trying to eliminate? So, don't tell me to turn the dial. Get rid of the garbage!

Legislators' Wages Paltry Compared to Some Administrators'

By JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Running like a refrain through the angry protests of the welfare marchers around Madison, including those who took over the Assembly chamber by force, was the charge that legislators
"who raised their own salaries" are unwilling to provide decent allowances for public assistance recipients.

What is an adequate standard of assistance for those who are on welfare department case rolls can be disputed at length and tends to reflect the economic experience and circumstances of those who are involved in the argument.

But the charge that a heartless Legislature greedily increased its own emoluments requires some qualification, at the very least.

First, legislative pay has not been adjusted this year. The reference is to an act of 1967, which was promulgated at the time by an advisory commission of citizens after extensive study and comparison of the practices of other states of the country, as well as the pay classified under a more prestigious title as a means of avoiding the Bureau of Personnel's wage controls was recently raised to $2,000 a year. If he should recognize himself in this description, it may be hoped that he won't be offended, for he is a good and earnest man.

But he was once a capitol reporter, and must quite readily concede that his energies are taxed in his present job at perhaps 50 per cent of the demands put upon him in his earlier employment. If he held legislative office, given his talents and experience, his wife would complain about the pressures put upon him.

OTHER HIGH PAY

The two boards of regents ruling the higher education programs of the state somewhat ostentatiously declined this year to increase the salaries of the top executives of the system — which are already far above those of the governor, the chief justice of the Supreme Court, and other men of higher responsibilities.
But the regents did not hesitate to hand out money to a multitude of underlings to raise them to level that would be regarded as high anywhere else in Wisconsin.

How can this curiously selective resentment about public pay scales be explained?
Undoubtedly one reason is visibility.

The little armies of administrative underlings in higher education are largely anonymous. The Legislature works in a glass house. There is an exaggerated awe of ranking education officials, not entirely unrelated to their frequently high flown titles, the cap and gown ceremonials and the rest. There is frequently visible a contempt for the legislative branch, in spite of the reality that by fact and definition, it is the creature of the people. The people can decide the fate of its members at frequent intervals, while much of the more generously paid bureaucratic top-side is insulated against popular controls and is largely self-perpetuating.

The conscientious citizens and the thoughtful critic might ask himself whether the $17,000 a year chief of one state agency's "news service," as it is euphemistically called, is more important to the happiness and welfare of the people than the president of the Senate or the speaker of the Assembly, both of whom have responsibilities that amount to virtually full-time work, but who are paid at about half the rate permitted the publicist.
Citizens should note also that the elected public servants are subjected to the constant scorn and contumely of the democratic political process, while the anonymous puff writer enjoys the comforts of security and privacy.

Strictly Personal

Rural-Urban Conflict Bugs Many States

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Speaking of Wisconsin, as I was yesterday, reminded me of a recent paragraph in which I observed that we need to get rid of our old political entities, and replace them with new geo-economic units that have some relevance to today's needs and problems.

Very few states are meaningful entities in 1969, as they were even at the beginning of the century. My own state, Illinois, for instance, is a geographical monstrosity; the metropolitan area of Chicago, which contains half the population, has little in common with downstate, which contains the other half.

Most of the states have a deep rural-urban conflict, which accounts for the fiscal trouble in the big cities. The state legislatures, for the most part, are controlled by men from rural areas, who are not only ignorant of urban problems but are actively hostile toward the big cities.

Even Wisconsin, which is a more unified state than most, because of the predominance of farming and dairy products, is having a bumpy time. At the National Governors' Conference this summer, Gov.
Warren P. Knowles lamented that "we must find ways to educate rural legislators on urban problems."

He was smarting from a rebuff given by the Wisconsin State Legislature to his programs for urban aid and welfare assistance — where help was cut off for 1,100 families, including 6,000 children, because of programs terminated by the legislature.

These rural legislators, he said, "represent relatively provincial constituencies, and sometimes simply do not get a state-wide perspective on major problems. They think of

Harris

the city of Milwaukee as a Milwaukee problem. I keep trying to tell them it is a state problem."

But the modern "state" exists largely as a political dinosaur that has outlived its time and function, except in a few instances. Norman Mail-er's suggestion this spring to separate New York City from the state and make it the 51st state was not as cockeyed as it may have sounded — for New York City and Upstate
New York have little in common.

We are an increasingly urbanized people — 75 per cent of whom now live in urban complexes — and yet our political destinies are controlled by rural legislators who dominate our state capitals.
The shape and form of our thriving business and corporate life have changed immensely since the turn of the century; why should our political life be constricted in the iron corset of 19th Century America?

Finch Confident Welfare Changes Will be Approved

Opposition Forces Are Influential

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nixon forces are confident Congress will travel the President's trail-blazing path to massive welfare reform, despite pockets of influential opposition.

"I'm pretty sure we'll end up with at least some variation of the family assistance plan," Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch predicted on the eve of the start of hearings today by Rep. Wilbur Mills' House Ways and Means Committee.

President Nixon wants a precedent-shattering family assistance welfare plan providing $1,600 a year in minimum federal payments to a family of four. Government subsidies would continue on a sliding scale until the family's income reached $3,920 a year.

Favorable Editorials

One of Finch's top staffers pointed to a mountain of favorable newspaper editorials and said "I never thought the welfare reform plan would go over this big."

A poll this week provided further indications of the nation's readiness to alter the welfare system. It showed 47 per cent favoring President Nixon's plan, 17 per cent opposed, and 36 per cent undecided.

The House Committee hearings also involved a look at a companion measure to boost Social Security benefits 10 per cent across the board beginning with checks mailed in April 1970.

10 Per Cent Increase

Committee Chairman Mills, D-Ark., has maintained a benevolent neutrality on the welfare reform plan. And he says the Social Security increases should be "at least" 10 per cent.

President Nixon's proposed welfare program would replace present dependent children's aid, benefit the so-called working poor for the first time, double the present $4.2 million in federal welfare spending, and add about 12.4 million persons to public assistance rolls.

The bigger bill and increased number of recipients are merely "start-up costs," the administration argues. Both would drop as built-in work incentives take hold, officials say.

Job Training

Able-bodied adult beneficiaries, except mothers of preschool children, would be required to accept job training and "suitable" employment.

The administration says the measure will remove discrepancies in welfare payments between different regions, promote family stability and eliminate welfare inequities for persons in the lowest paying jobs.

The main opposition appears to be labor and Democratic liberals.

The AFL-CIO, backed by such stalwart liberals as Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., contend the proposed job requirements could be abused in practice and may prove meaningless for want of jobs.

Others complain the $1,600 minimum is to low and should be raised to, some say, $3,200.

As for the Social Security hike, House leaders of both parties are plumping for a 15 per cent increase effective several months before the President's April 1970 date.

Servicemen in War Zone Silently Join Moratorium

SAIGON (AP) — A few American troops in Vietnam silently protested against the war today, wearing black arm bands while on combat patrol to show sympathy with the Moratorium Day protest in the United States.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. forces Vietnam, said he did not think the protest in the United States would make any difference on the battlefield in Vietnam.

"We've got our job to do here and that's what we're doing," Abrams told newsmen after a delegation from Mississippi presented him a resolution by their legislature supporting American forces in Vietnam.

Associated Press photographer Charles Ryan, on patrol south of Da Nang with a platoon from the U.S. Americal Division, said about half of the 30 troops were wearing black arm bands.

Silent Protest

"I'm wearing it to show that I sympathize with the antiwar demonstration back home," said the platoon leader, 1st Lt. Jesse Rosen of New York City. "It's just my way of silently protesting. Personally, I think the demonstrating should go on until President Nixon gets the idea that every American should be pulled out of here now."

Ryan reported that the platoon killed two Viet Cong, including a woman armed with a Chinese rifle, and that four of the Americans were wounded by booby traps.

A spokesman for the Americal Division said the protest was being investigated and he didn't know yet whether any disciplinary action would be taken against Rosen.

Full-Scale Probe

President Nguyen Van Thieu said in a statement that the antiwar demonstrations could prolong the war if they encouraged nam, said Thursday: "I don't know which I want over first—the war or the moratorium."

the enemy to wait for more concessions. Some members of the South Vietnamese House of Representatives called for a full-scale legislative debate on the demonstrations.

But 20 American civilians working in the country marched to the U.S. Embassy in Saigon with a petition calling for the immediate withdrawal of all American troops.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker met four of the demonstrators inside the embassy while the rest stood outside in a silent "vigil" for those killed in Vietnam. Social worker Leo Dorsey of Scranton, Pa., said Bunker agreed to transmit their one-paragraph petition to President Nixon.

32 Civilian

The petition was signed by 32 civilians, most of them working for religious and social organizations. The statement said:

"As millions of Americans today express their opposition to the war in Vietnam, we who work here wish to add our voices to theirs. We know the suffering of the Vietnamese people. We say this war must stop. We call for the immediate withdrawal of all American troops."

About an hour later, Lt. Gov. Charles Sullivan of Mississippi presented the legislative resolution to Abrams. It praised American forces in Southeast Asia for performing their duty "in the highest tradition of their country" despite "limitations and restrictive policies that have placed them in difficult and sometimes intolerable circumstances."

In advance of the Moratorium Day protest, the Americal Division honored its war dead with the dedication of a memorial crucifix given anonymously by the widow and mother of one of its soldiers killed in Vietnam.

Antipoverty Bill Okayed by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed overwhelmingly a two-year $4.78 billion extension of the antipoverty program but left unsettled the status of the controversial Legal Services aid.

In a sharp defeat for the program's backers, the Senate voted 45-40 Tuesday to add a rider to the bill giving governors the absolute right to veto any Legal Services projects.

But then, after the rider's sponsor, Republican Sen. George Murphy had left the chamber to go to California, the bill's managers came up with language which would allow President Nixon to override such vetoes.

Several senators contended Murphy's amendment was being emasculated in his absence.

The managers answered that Murphy should not have left the chamber before work on the legislation was completed, but they pledged they would drop the new language in Senate-House conference if Murphy objected.

The Legal Services lawyers, target of Murphy's amendment, have stepped on the toes of state and local officials in a number of states by filing lawsuits questioning various governmental practices.

Gov. Ronald Reagan in California has criticized their work in behalf of striking grape pickers, among others.

Under present law governors can veto most antipoverty programs in their states, but the Office of Economic Opportunity director can override the vetoes.

73-3 Vote

The bill to continue the OEO through fiscal 1971 passed the Senate 73-3 and was sent to the House.

Democrats and Republicans on the House Education and Labor Committee have been squabbling over OEO extension for months. There was no estimate on when the committee might act.

OEO already has gone through more than a quarter of the current financial year without knowing what its exact funding will be.

The Senate bill authorizes slightly over $2 billion for the present year, exactly what Nixon asked. The total is $100 million more than was spent last year.

Additional $292 Million

As it came to the floor from the Labor Committee, the measure carried an additional $292 million for the current year inserted by Democrats on the panel.

But this was stripped out Tuesday through 47-38 adoption of amendment by Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo.

The bill also authorizes $2.73 billion for fiscal 1971, considerably more than the administration has indicated it wants.

Dominick sought to cut this total by $292 million but lost 47-33.

Harm Likely In Protests - Congressmen

Rep. Byrnes Says Moratorium Day Might Aid Enemy

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — Three Wisconsin representatives today agreed, in effect, that Vietnam moratorium demonstrations going on all over the country could do more harm than good in negotiations at the Paris peace table.

Their comments followed a dramatic moment on the floor of the House when Rep. Rogers Morton, R-Md., Republican national chairman, read a letter from North Vietnam Prime Minister Pham Van Dong, which was addressed to the moratorium protesters.

The letter concluded that the prime minister wished the protesters "every success in their fall offensive," a term usually applied to war strategy by the Communists.

Aid and Comfort

Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, said that in spite of the statements by the demonstrators that "they were not giving aid and comfort to the enemy," these demonstrations do "in fact give encouragement to continue the enemy's adamant refusal to negotiate a settlement of the Vietnam conflict."

Rep. David R. Obey, D-Wausau, said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese are "obviously trying to get Americans angry and to get Americans to question one another's intentions and patriotism."

Emphasizing that the North Vietnamese do not understand freedom of speech as it is exercised in America, Obey said North Vietnam's main idea was to encourage suspicion among Americans.

Be in Trouble

"The day we start running our government on letters from North Vietnam, such as the one read today, which was sent by the premier, we will be in trouble," Obey said.

He said he would not participate in any of the moratorium activities, even though he believed President Nixon had erred at times in war policy.

"I do think, however, that Mr. Nixon should be given additional time to work out some type of agreement," he added.

Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh, stressed that although he believed in the right of dissent, it is "well to remember that dissent doesn't take place in isolation and thus carries with it a heavy responsibility."

"There is a danger that dissent will be misunderstood, and misrepresented," he cautioned.

"It is regrettable that apparently freedom to dissent in this country has been misunderstood by the North Vietnamese," he added.

Business, Industry

City Asked to Spend More for Advertising

Members of the Appleton city council's commerce and industrial development committee are asking for more than twice this year's allotment of funds for advertising and public relations in 1970.

The committee met Monday with a representative of a local advertising firm to discuss proposed expansion of current efforts to advertise the city's business and industrial potential.

The committee sent the advertising representative away with expressions generally favoring the program he presented, but leaving details for further discussion.

Committee members then voted to request that the present promotional advertising fund be doubled next year, to $3,000, while adding a new account labelled public relations and containing $500.

The requests, plus minor operating expense adjustments, would raise the development budget from this year's $1,900 to $3,975. The request goes to Mayor George Buckley to consider in preparing his executive budget recommendations and to the council if the mayor chooses.

The committee is asking again for authorization to borrow up to $200,000 in short-term

WASHINGTON — Next door is the office of freshman Rep. Barry M. Goldwater Jr., of California.

Just down the hall in the opposite direction is the office of Allard Lowenstein, the new New York congressman who started the entire anti-Johnson drive a couple of years ago.

Nearby is the office of James W. Symington of Missouri — about as widely hailed as a future president as a freshman congressman can be.

And somewhere in between — which just about sums up his political position as well — sat Rep. David R. Obey, D-Wis., starting his seventh month as a Member of Congress.

Replaced Laird

He was a congressman now, no longer the gangling youth out of Central Wisconsin, no longer the boyish wonder who startled the nation's political prognosticator by grabbing the seat long held by Melvin R. Laird, backbone of the Republican party in the House of Representatives before he became secretary of defense.

Obey had had his flurry of attention when he won the special election in April. This morning it was his task to send the telegram hailing the similar upset election of another young Democrat to the House.

He sat long over the question, musing, making a couple of false starts, and looking at the ceiling.

There had been that burst of attention when he won the seat. He had come from the Assembly to the ABM in a bare six months. He was accustomed to the duties now, working hard at the work of his district, ever watchful of the nearing election in 1970.

What Legacy?

What did he want his work in the House to mean? As a newcomer to the national political scene, what did he think he would want to be remembered for after his career was ended — no matter when that time came?

"If I could carve out any role here," he said, "my main concern would be with the young people who say that the system doesn't work.

"I mean those who say that you can bash down doors and sit in buildings or burn records — because the system doesn't work. My interests, I guess, are in streamlining the system to make it obvious that it does work," said the 31-year-old former state lawmaker.

"Because it does — it does work. The system may be cumbersome, but it does work," he repeated.

"If kids don't believe that they should look at what young people were able to do when they were against the war. They literally brought a president down.

"And they did that within the system — by working within the system," said Obey.

It is that system and its working that are starting to concern the new congressman as he views the workings of the House of Representatives.

Many a newcomer before him has singled out the ingrained faults of the House, shooting at the targets as most newcomers before them did for generations. Yet most newcomers — if they stay around for a while — have a way of defending the system once they become a part of it.

Obey's questions and criticisms are of a different tone. He defends the seniority system; he doesn't attack it.

'Simple Things'

Yet because of his leadership roles in the statehouse, and his arduous work for legislative reform, he knows what a legislature — state or national — can be. And he knows what Congress does not have.

"In many cases it's the simple things," he says. "We don't even have a bill digest, so we can check up on what has happened to a piece of legislation. And it's things like having amendments printed and before us when we consider them on the floor — rather than taking the word of their author as to what they are about."

His criticisms go beyond

Youthful David Obey of Wausau is one of three Democrats who have won upset victories in special elections to the House of Representatives since the victory of President Nixon a year ago. Working hard at liberal reforms of Congress and its involvement in government, the 31-year-old Obey says his prime hope is to prove to the youth that "the system" really works. (Post-Crescent Photo) that, into the structure of the House and its committee system as well. But Obey's interests are directed toward the working of Congress to insure that it works, and does so more easily and with more believability.

Because of these needs, says Obey, Congress must begin asking new types of questions, especially in areas which plunge deep into the heart of the nation's life.

He hails the resurgence of questioning into national priorities and the needs and power of the military in American life.

Later that same day he stood in the well of the House and made a rare address for a freshman, one that drew the longest applause of the afternoon, as debate raged over military appropriations.

To a stilled House, he said: "I do not want this debate to degenerate into a clichéd attack upon the so-called military-industrial complex. I think it would be a dangerous thing to turn this debate and the opposition toward the deployment of an ABM system into an attack on the military."

"The country cannot afford that, and the military does not deserve it," said Obey.

Not Shocked
"I, for one, am not especially shocked because our chief military leaders are requesting approval for another weapons system. If they sincerely believe that weapons system is in the best interest of the country, it is their obligation to the public, to the Congress and to their own consciences to request such a system."

"But to us falls a different task. We too have our obligations to conscience and our role is quite different," Obey cautioned.

"To us falls the responsibility to examine that request, not only in terms of past military realities and requirements, but also in the context of present and future military, international, economic and domestic considerations."

"To us fall the responsibility and obligation to balance such requests against other requests for hospitals, medical research, pollution control and a good many other things, including other weapons systems," said Obey.

Rep. William Steiger, R-Oshkosh, once was a co-worker of Obey's in the Assembly, and now watches him again in the House. How is Obey doing? he was asked.

"Very well," replied Steiger. "People are getting to know who he is, and that's the important thing out here."

But perhaps the best assessment came after that speech against the anti-ballistic missile system on the floor.

Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, the South Carolina Democrat who serves as the fire-breathing backer of all military matters in the House, stalked up to Obey.

He poked a finger in the young Congressman's chest, and said:

"Boy, Ah don't agree with you. But of all those who said it on the floor today, you said it the best!"

Perhaps Obey will be able to show that the system does work.

Ethics Code Pondered In Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — The legislative committee of the common council began work Monday night on a code of ethics for public officials as recommended by Ald. William Rogers (5th), but little was accomplished.

Much of the meeting was spent on the continuing disagreement between Rogers and Ald. Russel Dix (4th) concerning land transaction with the city. Rogers has accused Dix of not showing good judgment in having his uncle purchase city owned property which Dix in turn bought from his uncle a day after the city deeded over the property.

Dix has accused Rogers of not being fair with the city in a land transaction dating back to 1964 in which Rogers bid on a piece of city-owned land, but never completed the purchase.

Rogers mentioned gifts received by officials from contractors or suppliers as unethical practices. When pressed for specifics, however, he indicated only this should be included in the code.

Man on Roadway Struck by Auto

An Appleton motorist whose car was being pulled from a ditch at State 55 and the E. College Avenue extension about 3:40 a.m. Tuesday, was struck by an oncoming auto.

Outagamie County police said Gary L. Ritchie, 21, 1309 S. Kernan Ave., was taken to Kaukauna Community Hospital by squad car for treatment of head and hand cuts.

Police said he was standing on the roadway while an employee of Henry's Body Shop of Kaukauna was pulling his car from the ditch.

A car driven by Joseph Vandenberg, 36, 1009 Main St., Kaukauna, slammed into the left front of the wrecker, then struck Ritchie. Police said the emergency light was operating on the wrecker.

Trespassing Charge on Club Land Dismissed

A trespassing charge against John R. Young, Grailton, was dismissed Monday following a trial before Outagamie County Court Judge Urban P. Van Susteren.

The charge was brought by Vern Larsen, manager of the Embarrass Slough Club in the Town of Liberty, who contended that Young trespassed on the posted land with intentions of hunting on Oct. 14, 1967.

Oshkosh Nips La Follette in AP Prep Poll

Hortonville Gains 10th Spot on 'Little 10' List

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Two weeks from now we want to be rated. Right now we want to beat Watertown," said Oconomowoc Coach Ed Rux.
The first "want" came two weeks early as Oconomowoc moved into 10th place this week in The Associated Press Wisconsin high school "big ten" poll. The second "want" will have to wait until this weekend.

"We are pretty fortunate in having a bunch of kids that want to play," Rux said. "We don't have an outstanding scorer or rusher or back. But we do have a number of boys who want to play."

So far this season, Oconomowoc has defeated Milwaukee Don Bosco, Madison Edgewood, West Bend, Waupun, Wales and Beaver Dam.

Nips La Follette
Oshkosh remained atop the "big ten" poll, barely nipping Madison La Follette, 154 points to 151.

The state's sportswriters and broadcasters vote in the poll with 10 points awarded to a first place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third, etc.

Eau Claire Memorial is third, followed by Fond du Lac, Antigo, Green Bay East, Brookfield Central, Prairie du Chien

Saturday's Games:
Kimberly at New London.

Menasha — Open Date.

BY RON WITT

Post-Crescent Staff Writer
It may be a good time to think about peace elsewhere, but you can bet there won't be any truce when the gridiron war in the Mid-Eastern Conference head into its second-to-last round of games this weekend.

All of the battles will take place Saturday afternoon, as unbeaten Kimberly tries to ward off the challenges of co-runnersup Clintonville and Kaukauna in the fight for the M-E championship.

The front-running Papermakers, with four straight league victories — and two more wins against non-conference competition — gun for at least a share of the title at New London (1-3-1).

The Truckers, meanwhile take their 3-1 record to Two Rivers to meet the deposed campion Raiders (2-2), and the Ghosts put their 3-1 mark on the line at home against winless Shawano (0-4). Menasha (1-3-1) has an open date.

Rips Shawano

In last week's struggles, Kimberly kept sharp with a 14-0 triumph over Stevens Point. Clintonville ripped Shawano, 42-0; Kaukauna tumbled New London, 26-6; and Two Rivers topped Menasha, 14-6.

Kimberly, although not as well on the ground, too, picking effective offensively in past, up 108 yards, most of it by Tom outings, came up with another Scovronski and Tom Bednarow-superalative defensive effort to down the Panthers. Coach Jack Wippich's charges intercepted only one completion for six four passes and grabbed up two yards.

"The toughest part of it all was to lose the game after these boys came back the way they did," said Coach Ron Roberts of the Lawrence University football team as he looked back on last Saturday's 24-23 homecoming defeat by Cornell College.

"We actually played a pretty good game. It was smart play by their quarterback (Mark Steger) that caused the problems in our secondary," Roberts added.

Agee's Sterling Catches Help Mets Amaze Orioles

Tommy Also Homers in 5-0 Victory, as New York Takes 1-Game Series Lead

By MIKE RATHET

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite a suspicion to the contrary, the Baltimore Orioles continue to deny that the New York Mets and the man upstairs have formed some sort of strange alliance.

"You know what somebody told me?" coach Joe Pignatano asked with a laugh in the Mets dressing room after the club nicknamed the Amazings had been just that in a 5-0 victory over the Orioles Tuesday that gave them the lead in the World Series.

And then he answered his own question:

"God is a Met fan."

"We," added Manager Gil Hodges, "certainly picked up some more non-believers with this one."

But they didn't pick up any of the Orioles.

"They're not super men," said outfielder Frank Robinson. "They're flesh and blood. The writers want to make it look like somebody's looking over them, but there's nothing to that."

"They're Just Good" "They tell me," said Manager Earl Weaver, "that man up there likes us all the same. Magic? They don't have any magic. They're just good."

"Heck, if Agee has an ingrown toe nail we got five runs."

Agee is Tommie Agee, the Mets center fielder. He didn't have an ingrown toe nail Tuesday, but he did have a leadoff homer that gave the Mets a lead they never relinquished and two spine-tingling catches that preserved the victory.

The catches and shutout pitching by Gary Gentry and Nolan Ryan pulled the Mets into a 2-1 lead after three games of the World Series and gave them a substantial edge the oddsmakers and experts never expected.

With two more games in New York, today and Thursday, and with their aces—Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman—lined up to handle the pitching, they have put themselves in position to complete the miracle that has seen them move from ninth place last year to the top this season.

"Do we have our backs against the wall? No," said Robinson. "When they need only one more then we have our backs against the wall. They have only the advantage of being one-up just the same as when we won the first game."

"But it certainly gives them an edge. It was a pivotal game."

Cruise Tells Packers That the Rams Are Improved in 4 Ways

GREEN BAY — Ever since training camp opened in July, most of pro football's pundits have been tabbing this "The Year of the Ram" in the National Football League.

Thus far, it must be admitted, George Allen's athletes have been making the experts look good.

Although the Rams have not been overpowering, having had last Sunday when they had to surge from behind to outlast the 49ers, 27-21, they are undefeated after four outings.

In fact, the Coastal Division leaders and the Dallas Cowboys are the only remaining unbeaten in the NFL.

Lofty Status

And, Packer Scout Wally Cruise suggests, there are some valid reason for the lofty status of the Californians, who confront the Packers in the Los Angeles Coliseum Sunday afternoon. Such as:
Improved team spirit.
An improved offensive line.

An improved running attack. And, believe it or not, an improved front four.

Teaming the Rams just as good as they were last year, and maybe a little better, Cruise says trades which brought them Bob Brown from the Eagles and Mitch Johnson from the Washington Redskins have padded the Angeles' offensive line at tackle.

"Brown has been a big help, particularly on pass blocking," said the one-time Northwestern ace, here Tuesday to brief the Pack after viewing the Ram-49er struggle in San Francisco over the weekend. "And Johnson has played quite a bit. They're real happy with him. He's been alternating with both Charlie Cowan and Brown."

"In the backfield, they have Les Josephson back. He didn't play at all last year. And he and their No. 1 draft choice, Larry Smith of Florida, a big guy who is 6-3 and 220 pounds, give them running power they haven't had in recent years."

And, startling as it may seem, Cruise finds the Ram fearsome foursome is even more fearsome than it was, despite the fact that Roger Brown and Lamar Lundy are no longer members of the cast.

Lundy was injured on the first day of practice and has undergone knee surgery which is expected to keep him out most of the season and Brown, who fractured a hand, is still trying to win his job back since returning from duty.

"They have Diron Talbert at Lundy's old spot and he is playing better than either Lundy or Gregg Schumacher, who replaced Lamar until he also got hurt," Cruise informs.

"And they've got a second year man, Coy Bacon, playing a right tackle and he's playing better than Brown . . . they've got a good defense, no question about it."

"They also have a great kicking game with Bruce Gossett. He can pull some out of the fire for them with his foot . . . and they have great kick returners in Alvin Haymond and Ron Smith. Where are you going

These Two Catches by center fielder Tommy Agee of the New York Mets, saved five runs and were instrumental in helping the Mets hand the Baltimore Orioles a 5-0 defeat in the third game of the World Series at Shea Stadium in New York Tuesday. In the top picture, Agee is shown hitting the ground while clutching a ball hit off the bat of Paul Blair in the seventh inning with the bases loaded. The other picture shows Agee spearing a drive off the bat of Ellie Hendricks of the Orioles for the final out of the fourth inning with two men on base. The Mets now have a 2-1 lead in the series. Mets Become Series Favorites

STATELINE Nev. (AP) — The New York Mets, underdogs going into the World Series were made 7-to-5 favorites to win the series after Tuesday's 5-0 shutout of Baltimore.

The victory gave the New Yorkers a 2-1 edge in the best-of-seven game series.

Harrah's racebook listed the Orioles as 6-to-5 favorites for Wednesday's fourth game in New York. The Birds were 7-to-5 favorites to win the series before Tuesday's loss.

Jets Already Setting Sights on 2 Big Wins For Super Bowl Berth

BY ELINOR KAINÉ

On the debut of his new TV show Joe Namath as much as said that the Jets, if they didn't get murdered by injuries during the season, needed only two wins in the play-off games to go to the Super Bowl, and that the regular AFL season was just nonsense, icing, practice, or whatever.

Namath, of course, referred to the greedy, fantastic system which the AFL is using to determine its champion — with the top two teams in each division playing off one week and the winners playing for the AFL championship two weeks later. In other words, coming in second is as good as a win.

Because no team plays consistently top calibre football for a full season, or a full pre-season and regular season, the Jets may be in a near-perfect situation. They came to a peak early, for two must-games — the All Star game and The Giant game — and then slumped, in September. Now, in mid-October, they are coming out of their slump, they are getting over a rash of injuries, and they are headed home for the first time after 11 road games for seven straight at Shea Stadium.

In one way they have a month or more advantage over most other teams, who tend to slump in November. The Jets, if they peak in mid-August and mid-November, are a month ahead of themselves and will be playing games with perfect timing — the opponents starting to slump and the Jets on the rise.

As Namath said, all the Jets want to do is keep healthy and win those big two — on Dec. 20 or 21, and on Jan. 4, 1970.

Oakland and Kansas City, like the Jets, are coming out of slumps and getting over serious injuries. If Daryle Lamonica gets untracked and Lenny Dawson gets back, the Raiders and Chiefs will also hit peaks in mid-November — when Oakland plays the Chargers, Chiefs and Jets in a row.

"Thank God we didn't start out against any good teams," said one Raider. "We might not have won a single game in the first month." The Raiders considered their early schedule "the effete East" and didn't particularly pay attention to getting up for the games. "All we wanted to do was get through the first four with no injuries," said an Oakland defender. Like Namath said, the AFL season is just practice for the two big ones.

The Steelers' top draft choice "Means Joe" Greene isn't really mean at all and is rather happy-go-lucky and friendly. Greene was playing his best game against the Giants when he smashed Giant quarterback Fran Tarkenton on the head. Greene was kicked out of the game by the officials and Tarkenton doesn't remember much about the last 23 minutes of the game.

Look Magazine is running one of those long, in-depth articles about Oakland's big boss Al Davis in the November 14th issue. The writer is Len Spector whose in-depth treatment of Vince Lombardi caused such a stir two years ago. Insiders who have read the article are aghast at the portrait of Al and gossip abound.

Weeb Eubank was about to bench Don Maynard, who played such a bad game against Boston two weeks ago. Maynard has had off days but never one so horrendous as against the Patriots, and Weeb was considering putting in Bake Turner after the first series of downs against the Bengals. Maynard's radar caught the signals from Weeb because he caught 4 for 35 yards.

Bengal QB Greg Cook was 4-9 for 20 yards when Paul Brown benched Cook in the first half against New York. Cook has been raving about Brown, saying how great it was for the coach to call the signals. Now that he's in the dog house, and jerked out of the game so quickly, Cook may have second thoughts.

In the sour grapes department, ex-Bengal Pete Per-ault was one of Brown's "messenger guards" last season before being dropped (in a "go with youth" movement) and picked up by the Jets. Perreault blasts Brown's system and Brown: "He has no feeling for his players. He's all business. You can't smoke in the locker room, and you can't even bring a sandwich in the locker room. Brown said this isn't a restaurant." Another coach, one of Brown's disciples Weeb Eubank, doesn't allow smoking in the locker room either.

More sour grapes, from two Falcon cast-offs Jerry Simmons and Jim Ferguson: "Coach Van Brocklin is too demanding and puts too much pressure on his players, treats them like kids. He takes the fun out of the game." Simmons and Ferguson are now with the Chicago Bears. Can Jim Dooley make them feel more loved?

Shou'der Now Back in Shape, Cowboys' Hayes Set to Start

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Bob Hayes can joke when he talks about it now.

"Oh, I even wear my shoulder pads when I take my wife out to dinner," he laughs. "You can bet I'll never be caught without them again."

Hayes suffered a shoulder separation Sept. 6 in a pre-game warmup before an inter-league exhibition game with the New York Jets.

"We never wear the pads during the light limbering up drills and I fell on my shoulder going for a ball," Hayes says. "The pads stay on from now on."

Hayes is slated to start Sunday against Philadelphia for the Dallas Cowboys in a National Football League game at his old split end post.

"I've given the shoulder some real good licks in practice against blocking dummies and it feels real good," Hayes says. "I can lift my arms and catch the ball with no problem."

Hayes, who joined Dallas in 1965, says the current undefeated team is the "best Dallas team I've seen—both offensively and defensively."

Present Problems

"With Calvin Hill in at running back, the linebackers are really presented with a problem. It will be interesting to see if they want to take a chance to double cover me and risk having Hill run up their backsides."

Hayes admits that being out for a month and a half was the worst time of his life but says "I'm lucky it wasn't for the season. Look at some of the people like Tommy Nobis (Atlanta linebacker) who might be lost for the year. Yes sir, I'm really lucky."

And don't be surprised if you see a man walk into your favorite restaurant with shoulder pads on. Bob Hayes is taking no more chances.

PACKER POTPOURRI
By LEE REMMEL

"It's pride," Forrest Gregg said with impressive conviction, "more than anything else."

Fresh from a 2-mile job around the Packer practice field on a blustery morning, the towering Texan was discussing the matter of motivation, in this case as it pertained to himself and his colleagues in the offensive line.

Although great financial rewards obviously are available to professional athletes, Gregg discounted these as the primary inspiration for the Packer forwards' sterling performance in last Sunday's 28-17 decision over the Detroit Lions, which came in the wake of an unpleasant afternoon in Minnesota a week earlier.

"It's pride that makes you perform, it's not the money," the Bay's all-time offensive tackle asserted, without the faintest hint of reservation. "When you're out there on the field, money is the last thing on your mind."

"Proved Our Point"

Sunday's impetus came, he said, from the memory of what had transpired against Minnesota's front four.

"We were very unhappy about our performance in the Viking game," Gregg confided. "A lot of things happened in the game that we were unhappy about."

"We knew we were a good offensive line and we felt we had to come up with a good effort. I think we proved our point. We were able to run against the Lions, to sustain a running game. And Bart Starr was sharp. His passes to Dale got us out of trouble a few times."

Forrest, an eight-time all-pro, does not regard Sunday's display as a one-shot affair, he added.

"This line has as much natural ability as any I've seen in the 13 years I've been here," he said. "Now all it is a matter of experience, pride and attitude. Pride is what separates a good line from a great one."

"The Vikings front four is a prime example. They have pride in their performance and in themselves as a unit. This is a big factor in their favor."

Forrest, who joined the Packer coaching staff last January but later was persuaded to come out of retirement by Coach Phil Bengtson, appraised his own artistic contributions with typical candor.

"I feel like I'm playing fairly well," said Gregg the coach of Gregg the player.

"Last week," he added with a significant smile, "I wasn't around long enough to really establish anything... I feel I've been playing pretty good football overall."

The reference, of course, was to his banishment in the second quarter after an exchange with the Vikings' Dale Hackbarth, who has been known to be somewhat overenthusiastic in his professional endeavors.

"Haven't Been Fatigued"

Aside from the Minnesota misadventure, the 35-year-old Gregg has gone the route every game, a testimonial to his superb condition.

Forrest, who has been running up to four miles a day in the Pack's conditioning program, reported, "I haven't been fatigued. I got a little bit tired Sunday, but we made a number of long drives and the condition of the field didn't help any. It was soggy, which is tiring to run on. I think everybody was a little fatigued, but we were in good enough condition to sustain ourselves all the way."

Addressing himself to next Sunday's assignment, a critical invasion of Los Angeles to meet the Rams, Gregg said, "I'll tell you one thing, I know that Gillie (Gale Gillingham, his running mate on the right side of the Packer line) and I have our work cut out for us.

Thiefs' Dawson Takes Part in Full-Scale Drill

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas City Chiefs quarterback Len Dawson took part in his first full-scale workout Tuesday since he injured his knee in an American Football League game against the Patriots in Boston Sept. 21.

Coach Hank Stram said the signs were encouraging that the 13-year veteran from Purdue would play against Cincinnati Oct. 26.

Mo Moorman, an offensive guard who sustained a similar injury one week after Dawson, also worked out for the first time.

Hawk Jayvees Spill Pacelli

Appleton Xavier's junior varsity football team rallied from an early 6-0 deficit to dump Stevens Point Pacelli, 18-6, in a recent game at Stevens Point.

Halfback Randy Arnoldussen tallied two of the Hawks' TDs on runs of two and three yards, and quarterback Tom Connolly snared a 30-yard scoring pass for Jeff Beschta for the other.

It was Xavier's sixth win in seven outings this season.

We'll be facing two top players in the National Football league in Merlin Olson and Dave Jones."

'Second Catch Was Easier,' Agee Says

By HAL BOCK
NEW YORK (AP) — Tommie Agee sat quietly in front of his locker after the first two games of the 1969 World Series, a phonograph playing softly in front of him.
Over and over the tune and lyrics bore into Agee, who is perhaps more responsible than any other man for the Mets' appearance in the 1969 World Series.
"You can't keep a good man down... you can't keep a good man down."
"Oh, it's just a tune I like to listen to," said Agee, after he had snapped an 0-for-8 Series slump with a leadoff homer and then made two sensational, rally-killing catches in New York's 5-0 third game victory over the Orioles Tuesday.
Agee's mini-slump in the Series was nothing compared to the 0-for-34 collar he wore early last season. Now that was a slump.
"I felt like jumping off a bridge then," said Agee.
Agee managed only a .217 batting average and five home runs all of last year. He bounced back this season, hitting .271 and leading the Mets with 26 homers and 76 runs batted in.
He had also given the Mets some clutch hitting as well as flawless center fielding and he demonstrated both commodities to the Orioles Tuesday.
Got Right Pitch
First there was a leadoff home run in the first inning.
"I'm a low ball hitter and they've been getting me out with high pitches. I figures that's what I'd be seeing again and luckily, I did," said Agee.
In the fourth inning, with the Mets leading 3-0 the Orioles put runners on first and third with one out. Brooks Robinson struck out and then Elbie Hendricks sent a long drive to left center field.
"I play him to pull the ball," said Agee. "I was a shade towards right for him. I saw the ball all the way and I knew I'd really have to go to get it."
So, Agee went. Dashing across the outfield at top speed, the center fielder raced Hendricks' shot to the wall. Both arrived at about the same moment.
"I wasn't afraid of the wall. I knew I'd be near the running track when I first went after the ball," said Agee.
Almost Through Glove
He stuck out his glove and the ball landed in the webbing with plenty of white showing. "It almost went right through the webbing," said Agee.
Three innings later, Agee got on his bicycle again, this time spearing a sizzler by Paul Blair with the bases loaded and two out.

Knicks Spoil Wilkens' Debut

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK (AP) — Having spoiled one National Basketball Association coaching debut Tuesday night, the New York Knicks are out to ruin another tonight. This one may be more difficult.
The Knicks opened the NBA's 24th season with an easy 126-101 victory over Lennie Wilkens' Seattle SuperSonics. Tonight they go up against the Royals in Cincinnati, with Bob Cousy, ex-Boston Celtic great and later coach at Boston College, handling a pro team for the first time.
The Knicks trailed Seattle only in the opening minutes as stop them on the last drive," a disappointed Roberts added.

In the injury department, the Vikes coach said Andy Gilbert and Ted Hope had been shaken up in the game, but were expected to be ready for this weekend's game against arch-rival Ripon College, at Ripon.
Tim Young, who missed the Cornell game with a broken finger, is also expected to rejoin the team for the clash with the Redmen.
Loses to Top 3
In looking ahead, the Lawrence coach said that the Vikes can expect another good passing opponent. Ripon has a deceptive 2-3 record with wins over Coe and Beloit and losses to the top three teams in the conference — Monmouth, St. Olaf and Grinnell.
The Vikes have a 3-2 Midwest Conference record with narrow losses to Monmouth and Cornell.
Roberts dispelled any chances of the Vikes having a mental letdown after the 1-point loss. "This is the first team I've ever had that can stage a comeback, such as was seen Saturday. It's a shame not to come away with a victory after playing like that. As far as getting the team mentally up, that's not too difficult to do when you're playing a team like Ripon and it's their homecoming."

"And that Roman Gabriel is something else," super scout declared, adding with a grin, "he's a football team by himself. He could play with a bunch of rinky dinks and still have a chance of winning. He does some things you have to see to believe. He's so strong he can throw that ball with three or four guys hanging on him."
"Overall, they have a better spirit as a team than they've had before. They took too much for granted in the past, but now they realize they can't afford to do that. They've always been a bridesmaid but never a bride — they're always in it, but they never win it, and I think they now understand why."
"They've got some real talent — they've got good people all over the place and they've got no weaknesses."
"There can be no doubt they are one of the four or five top teams in the league," Wally summed up, "along with the Cowboys, the Vikings and the Browns."

Bergmann Snaps Own CC Record

HORTONVILLE — Chuck Bergmann broke his own record, by seven seconds a 9:58-clocking for the 2.1-mile Hortonville course as he led the Polar Bears to a 15-47 cross country dual win over Seymour Tuesday.
Four of Bergmann's teammates followed directly behind with Grant Garriott the closest at 10:19. Mike Breitrick was third, Steve Bergmann fourth, and Leonard Grewe fifth.
Tim Hodkiewicz turned in the best Seymour effort with a 10:34 clocking good for sixth place. Rounding out the top 10 were Glenn Van Handel (H), Dale Marsh (S), Randy Ebben (H), and Bill Everson (S).

Michigan's Mandich Named College 'Lineman of Week'

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Editor
Preseason promotion billed Michigan tight end Jim Mandich as a prime All-American candidate.
Weakened by flu, the senior captain of the Wolverines played a poor opening game. The next week he got better and the week after that stayed about the same.
But last Saturday Mandich lived up to his billing when he caught 10 of Don Moorhead's passes for 156 yards and a touchdown as Michigan upset ninth-ranked Purdue 31-20.
He also set up two other touchdowns and a field goal with his sure-handed receiving, earning him Lineman of the Week honors from the Associated Press.
"Well on Our Way"
"It's a great honor," he said. "But most of my interest now lies with the team. We're well on our way to a Big Ten championship."

Michigan's Mandich Named College 'Lineman of Week'

Those are confident words for a member of a team that has only played one Big Ten game this season. But the feeling at Ann Arbor is that the Purdue game could have been the biggest hurdle of the season towards a Rose Bowl trip.
"He's a very reliable receiver," said U-M coach Bo Schembechler, who is not one to heap individual praise.
The record book proves Schembechler right. Mandich ranks second in career receptions at Michigan with 89 to Jack Clancy's 132 and third in yardage with 1,094, although he should pass Lowell Perry for second place in a week or two.
The 6-foot-3, 220-pound Mandich, who is from Solon, Ohio, threw the football into the stands after his TD Saturday

Hortonville, Denmark Clash

"Little 10" ratings when Denmark invades the Hortonville field Friday night.
The Polar Bears made the ratings for the first time today as they climbed to the No. 10 spot.
The Denmark Vikings have knocked off two of the conference's unbeaten teams on successive weeks and will be out to make the Polar Bears their third straight victim. A win for the Vikings would put them in a tie for the lead.
Denmark dropped Winneconne out of a tie for first two weeks ago and then downed previously unbeaten Reedsville last Friday.
Another Friday night game will have resurgent Shiocton at Brillion and the rest of the league schedule will be completed Saturday with Winneconne at Reedsville, Omro at Freedom and Hilbert at Wrightstown.
Jeff Barnard, Reedsville, still dominates the individual statistics in the league, but Mark Everts, Hortonville, has closed the gap in the scoring department. Barnard has 98 points and failed to score against Denmark while Everts scored three times in Hortonville's win over Omro and now has 78 markers.
Leads in Rushing
Barnard is the top rusher with 637 yards in 67 carries and Everts ranks next in line with 549 yards in 67 carries and 15 touchdowns.
and the Wolverines drew 15-yard penalty as a result.
"I can't forgive him for throwing the ball in the stands," deadpanned Schembechler. "But," he added, breaking into a grin, "I love that guy."

89 yards in 503 tries. Mike Lee, Winneconne, is the leading pass receiver with 18 catches for 372 yards and Barnard is second with 20 grabs for 334.
Denmark has 1,214 yards by rushing, tops in the conference, and Hortonville is next with 1,054 while Brillion has 1,011. In passing, Winneconne leads with 795 total yards and 10 touchdowns via the airways and Reedsville is second.
Hortonville ranks fourth in passing statistics with 518 total yards and three TDs while Denmark is ninth in passing with 350 yards and two touchdowns.

Harrelson's Defense Aids Met Chances

By DICK COUCH
NEW YORK (AP) — Tommie Agee's circus catches plucked the Baltimore Orioles' feathers in the third game of the World Series. Little Bud Harrelson has been picking their pockets from the start.
"We're playing our game now—good defense," said Harrelson. New York's sure-handed shortstop, after the Mets trimmed the Orioles 5-0 Tuesday for a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 series.
Harrelson handled eight chances flawlessly as the Mets stymied Baltimore's big hitters again with solid defensive baseball. He personally disposed of the Orioles in the fifth inning by gobbling up three tricky ground balls and tossing out the side.
"They tell me that ties a World Series record... me and six million other guys," he joked.
"We didn't play our best in the first game," the 150-pound banjam continued. "We did in the second game and again today. Every time they got something started, we came up with the big plays and took them out of it."
"If Agee doesn't make the first catch they've got two runs. If he doesn't make the second one, it's three more and a whole different ball game.

Believers Now
"They did the same thing to us in the first game at Baltimore. But I'm sure we're making them believe in us now."
Harrelson has had 15 chances without an error in the first three Series games. He also has poked a pair of hits in seven trips to the plate, including a two-out single in the second inning Tuesday that gave pitcher Gary Gentry the opportunity to double home two big runs.
The Mets' shortstop was involved in the game's lone rhytmic bar as well. On first base with a walk in the fourth, he broke for second when Oriole pitcher Jim Palmer's pickoff throw went astray...
Harrelson was awarded second on an interference call against Powell, bringing Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver onto the field for a brief, but heated, argument with the umpires.
"I guess Powell had reached around for the ball and I was going the same way," said Harrelson, who gave away five inches and about 90 pounds in his comic wrestling match with the hulking Baltimore slugger.
"He was a big octopus. I felt like a baby kangaroo in a pocket."

"It was a mismatch," commented Mets skipper Gil Hodges.
Hodges Voices Optimism
Hodges was optimistic about the Mets' chances of upsetting the odds which were stacked against them after the Orioles beat 25-game winner Tom Seaver in the Series opener.
"We're in good shape," he said. "The next step is winning the third one."
Seaver was set to start again today and Jerry Koosman, the second-game winner, will follow on Thursday. "I couldn't plan for anything better," Hodges said.
"The left-handers got us into the Series by beating Atlanta," said Kranepool, who smacked an eight inning homer for New York's last run. "It looks like the right-handers have got to carry us in the Series."
No Complaints
"This could be the only one I might get one more chance if there's a sixth game."

But what's the difference as long as we win it?"
"Winning is everything," added Gentry, who picked up the victory but needed seventh inning relief help from Nolan Ryan. "I might have felt bad about coming out for a while, but you watch us play all year and see the moves Gil makes and you know they're never wrong."
Cleon Jones, who batted .340 during the regular season but has had just one hit—a first inning single in the opener—in 12 Series at-bats, wasn't complaining either.
"I hope my turn comes tomorrow," he said. "But as long as we win I don't need a turn. If we win it, I don't care if I get another hit."

On the move: New Chevrolet Movers for '70

Chevy goes heavy! New Titan 90.
Anybody can add a new truck to a lineup. Leave it to Chevy to add a truck and a half. Titan 90.
Never before has a Chevy tilt been so long on muscle.

So right for turnpike stretches. With any one of 9 diesels available to put under the driver at the wheel.
Or one of the biggest sleeping compartments on the road to put under him when he's not. And a wraparound instrument panel that puts everything just a glance or fingertip away. Big, tough conventional chassis cabs. Lowest cost vans. Recreational vehicles. Whatever you're thinking, your Chevrolet dealer's got it. And it's a Mover.

Chevy goes lively! New '70 pickup.
The first thing a Chevy pickup has to move is you. And we never forget it.
It shows in the way our '70s look. In their coil spring smoothness. Car-like option lists. And all the ways they come: Fleetside, Stepside and Longhorn (the second car that doubles as a second home).

Chevy goes anywhere! New Blazer.
Call it Chevrolet's convertible-station-wagon-car-truck if you've got the time. Or just call it Blazer for short. It's the runabout with the largest V8's, widest track and roomiest interior.
Order it with removable hardtop. Two- or four-wheel drive for telling trails to get lost.

Glad You Asked That!

Q: Is it true that through a new scientific method you can now change the iris of your eyes to a different color? — Debbie Clark, Springlake, Ill.

A: No Chief hazard: such a dye might endanger the photographic mechanism of the eye, reduce vision, cause inflammation, etc. Cosmetic contact lenses (used by TV and movie stars) are safer and accomplish the same effect.

Q: Don't Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton own a Paris boutique? — Emily Watkins, Chicago.

A: Partly. They're partners in the Mia-Vicky Boutique, on Rue Bonaparte, Paris, started on a shoestring by two young classmates of New York's Parsons School of Design. The Burtons dropped in, browsed, liked what they saw, and tossed in some shekels. The boutique's creations are now marketed here under the "Youthquake" label.

Q: I recently heard somebody referred to as a Broadway millionaire. What is that? — R. J. Bednar, Trumbull, Conn.

A: He's usually an extrovert who lives like a millionaire even though he only has a few dollars in the bank. He also has a wife and a girlfriend, a Caddy or Mercedes, a 40-foot yacht, membership in an exclusive country club, and practically commutes to Europe — all on the time-payment plan.

Award Night For Country Style Music

BY TV SCOUT

8-9 (Channel 5) — One of the premiere presentations on The Kraft Music Hall is their annual excursion to Nashville for the annual Country Music Association Awards. Tennessee Ernie Ford hosts the program, and a list of the participants should give you an idea of the activity. A partial list includes: Glen Campbell, Johnny Cash, Gene Autry, and Merle Haggard.

8-10 (Channels 11-9) — "Divorce, American Style" on The Wednesday Night Movie, is the week's best movie offering. It is a satire on marital dropouts starring Dick Van Dyke and Debbie Reynolds as one divorced couple and Jason Robards and Jean Simmons as the other. The main problem is alimony and the best cure for that is remarriage. Van Dyke leans toward Robards' ex, while the two scheme to get an eligible bachelor (Van Johnson) to propose to Debbie.

6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-7) — Don Ho joins the star of The Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour, along with Cher (without Sony), Cliff Arquette and newcomer Casey Anderson. Ho appears in his traditional Hawaiian setting, singing "Tiny Bubbles" and "Ain't No Big Thing."

9-10 (Channel 5) — Fernando Lamas guests on... Then Came Bronson in a part well suited to his style. He is a bull fighter and he lives his life with the same recklessness in and out of the arena. When Bronson comes along they decide on a trade. Lessons in bike riding for lessons in the bull ring.

7-7:30 (Channels 11-9) — There's a switch on The Courtship of Eddie's Father. The youngster isn't looking for a date for dad. Dad does it himself, and he isn't sure why. He fills out a computer dating service card and the girl chosen for him is completely opposite to what he likes in a woman.

7:30-8 (Channels 11-9) — There is more than one message on Room 222, but perhaps the most important is delivered to a young teacher who returns to school after a three-day bout with the flu. When asked why she is back so soon, she proudly boasts that she actually had the bug for six days but kept working the first three. Then she is told that by bringing the bug to school she had infected half the teaching staff who are home ill.

6:30-8 (Channel 5) — Tim Matheson gets his big moment on The Virginian when he becomes "The Family Man." A teen-age wife is deserted by her husband just as she is about to have her baby. Tim steps in, helping with the delivery and then dividing his time between his chores at Shiloh and helping the new mother.

TV MOVIES

3:30 — Channel 5 — All at Sea (1958) Alec Guinness, Irene Browne. Englishman, who gets sea sick if he looks at water, buys a dilapidated, Victorian seaside pier.

7:30 — Channel 34 — Fast and Sexy (1960) Gina Lollobrigida, Dale Robertson. Comedy. (c)

Anjelica Huston Looks At Life With Confidence

NEW YORK (AP) — Anjelica Huston, at 18 heiress to a great family theatrical tradition she hopes to carry on, looks at life with haunting dark eyes that are involved and unafraid.

She has the independence typical of her actor grandfather, Walter Huston, and her father, John, who directed her in her first film, "A Walk with Love and Death." It is a tragedy of teen-age love during the Middle Ages in which she is costarred with Assaf Dayan, son of Moshe Dayan, Israeli defense minister.

"I may have been shown favoritism in getting the part," she said with dry frankness. "but I certainly was shown no favoritism on the set."

Anjelica, who was born in Los Angeles and reared in Europe, is deeply concerned with the generation gap but feels none between her and her famous father.

"I haven't been as close to my father as I wanted to because of circumstances," she remarked. "But I think that once you cross the screwed-up, horrible phases of adolescence and can look at your parents as people rather than hurdles, then you can either accept or reject them. You are under nobody's spell."

"The generation gap has become a cliché, and youth itself has become an establishment. Where there are two establishments that don't understand each other, obviously there is no peace."

"The gap can be lessened only if people of all ages tell each other the facts—the straight facts. Where facts are known, there is understanding, where there is understanding there is friendship, and where there is friendship there is peace."

"But I feel that if the races and generations don't tell each other the truth and don't become more involved with each other in mutual understanding, there is going to be a worldwide civil war, a total disruption."

Although she has taken no formal acting lessons—her father wished her not to—she has absorbed the life of the theater and film world since childhood. Celebrities do not awe her, and she has no particular desire at present to be one.

"My goal isn't to be a movie star but to be a good actress," she said.

Tall, willowy and earnest, she can appraise her possibilities coolly.

"My biggest virtue, I feel, is that I am capable, or will be, of doing what I set out to do—to express whatever talent I have for becoming a good actress."

"I also think I can see people well. I can look at people and feel their vibrations and know them as they are."

"My biggest fault is probably hypersensitivity, sometimes to the point of being ridiculous. I can get very paranoid. I don't shrug off situations easily."

What about romance?

"Love is the most extraordinary thing in the world," she smiled, "and the discovery that you love someone is possibly as great as the love itself, but I don't have any announcements to make right now. I like my freedom."

Here are Anjelica's likes: "Cats and horses and the country—lilies, the sun, the sea, the moon—simplicity in dress—all music except the kind they pipe into elevators—dawn and dusk, black and white colors—astrology and mysticism—the smell of burning turf in Ireland—all kinds of art—the sound of the wind—Mexican food and rice—and honest manly men."

And here are her dislikes:

"Being rushed—getting up in the morning—the sound of auto horns in traffic jams—the smell of milk—corny styles of dress—people dirty of body or spirit—lies and cheats and violence—any kind of war."

If Anjelica fails to win fame, it won't be for lack of courage.

Anjelica Huston, 18, is heiress to a great family theatrical tradition she hopes to carry on. Her grandfather, Walter Huston, was an actor and her father, John, directed her in her first film, "A Walk With Love and Death." (AP Wirephoto)

Scalloped Potatoes Idaho-Style

Tuna-Mushroom-Noodle Casserole

Potluck Supper Season's Here

POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR
by Lillian Mackesy

Casserole dishes are made for the popular potluck supper, along with flat pan cakes moist and rich. The trick is to find recipes that will be sure-fire successes, easy to make and just as easy to tote. The meal-in-a-dish always has served the church supper or organization get-together well simply because it is convenient to prepare, it's usually hearty and it stays hot a good, long time or can easily be reheated when it reaches its destination.

When the time comes to volunteer, consider the vegetable dish so often overlooked in party planning. Try baking the favorite scalloped potatoes Idaho farm style in a fast, old-fashioned recipe that takes one back to farm kitchens. This potato disk is excellent served with thick slices of ham, coleslaw and hot rolls.

Tuna-Mushroom-Noodle Casserole is another fine dish that's both economical and filling. So is the bean and ham bake. Shoe Peg Sauté, named for the "country gentleman" corn, is a Southern dish that uses canned white corn. The kernels of this variety of corn resemble a cobbler's shoe peg, hence its unusual name.

The cake suggested is a perfect one for potluck, either at home or at a church or social gathering. It's made with applesauce that keeps it unusually tender and deliciously flavored. Here are the recipes designed for potluck success — filling yet delicious every one.

SCALLOPED POTATOES IDAHO FARM-STYLE

- 6 large Idaho potatoes
- 1/2 pound sliced bacon
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon coarse-grind black pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika
- 2 tablespoons snipped

- parsley
- 1 cup coarsely-chopped sweet Spanish onion
- 1 cup finely-cut celery
- 2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese
- 6 tablespoons butter
- 3/4 cup undiluted evaporated milk

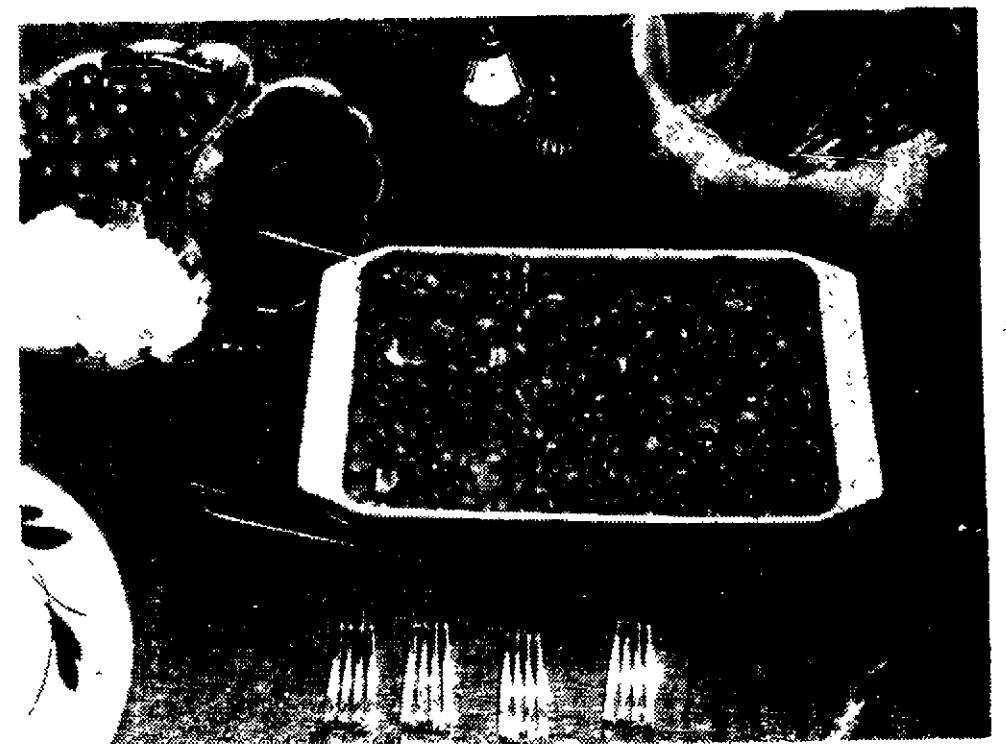

Peel potatoes and slice thin, about 1/4-inch in thickness. Cover all with cold water.

Fry or broil bacon until fairly crisp. Drain on paper toweling, then cut in bits, using scissors. Butter casserole or baking dish liberally. Cover the bottom

Pack With Pleasure Cookies That Travel

When off-to-school also means away from home, cookies that travel well become very important.

A box of mother's cookies seem to help cure the home-sickness that is bound to develop about 8 to 10 days after departure.

These recipes have only two steps in the preparation and each makes a big pan of bar cookies. The results are rich moist cookies that stay fresh even though it takes them several days to get to their destination. Even the frosting is easy to mix and are as packable as the cookies.

WINE On the Table

By William Clifford

What lies ahead for California wines?

How much better are they likely to get? And how soon?

Hugh Johnson, an unprejudiced British expert, believes that California "will ultimately become one of the finest vineyards of the world." I agree — hopefully.

This year California is celebrating the 200th anniversary of the arrival of a Spanish monk from Mexico with the first Mission grapes. But the wine industry isn't really that old. Serious wine-making didn't begin until around the time of the Gold Rush.

Prohibition Era
Then in 1919 came Prohibition, wiping out almost everything. Vines were ripped up and wineries abandoned. The wines we drink today have almost all been developed since the end of Prohibition, 36 years ago.

I think these wines have come a long way in a very short time. Many very dedicated men have contributed to this progress. And there's a lot of science at work on their side. The University of California has an important school at Davis that conducts useful experiments of every sort.

Only One Chance

So perhaps the critic who says, "If they could do better, why don't they?" is asking too much, too soon.

A wine-grower has only one chance each year to see how grapes will ripen in a certain location and what kind of wine they'll make. Rather than dragging their feet, Californians have been making remarkable progress.

However, their ultimate success may depend on commercial considerations. This means on us, the consumers.

Do we have the palates that appreciate finer wines? Are we prepared to pay for them — to pay for all the care that goes into their production, exactly as we pay for the best wines of Europe?

Apple Filling Fixed Easily

As American as apple pie filling in a can is a way to fix it fast. One is to empty a can of sliced apples with the sugar syrup into a casserole. Mix 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg with 1/2 cup sugar to prevent spice clumping when stirred into 1/4 cup heavy cream; pour over apples. Cover and bake in 350-degree oven 30 minutes uncovering for the last 5 minutes. Makes 4 to 5 dessert servings.

Statistics on Women

Death Rate From Accidents Increases

NEW YORK — More than 60 per cent within the involving motor vehicles in- 15,000 women of working age various age-color categories. increased by a sixth for white wo- men in the 15-64 age range. The among white women, begin to rise significantly at ages 35-44, and continue to be of increasing importance at the older ages. The death rate from fires and explosions is consistently higher, however, than that from falls among nonwhite women in every working age group.

Poisoning by solids and liquids ranks fourth with respect to the accidental death rate at the working ages, and occurs most frequently at ages 25 and older. Metropolitan statisticians point out that by contrast, drowning figures prominently as a cause of death at ages 15-19, especially among nonwhites.

Poisonous gas and firearm accidents also are important causes of accidental death in both color groups, the fatality rate from poisonous gas being particularly high among nonwhite women at ages 35-64. Fatality rates from firearm accidents are strikingly higher among nonwhites than whites in every age group.

According to National Health Survey data, more than 12.5 million women at the working ages each year are injured seriously enough to require medical attention, or to be restricted in activity for at least one day. Over half of these victims sustain their injuries in accidents which occur in and about the home, and about one in ten at the place of employment. Relatively few women lose their lives at work — about 50 such deaths per year being reported in non-transport accidents.

On the other hand, among nonwhite females those at ages 20-24 had the highest motor vehicle fatality rate, followed by those at ages 45-54 and those in the 25-34 age group.

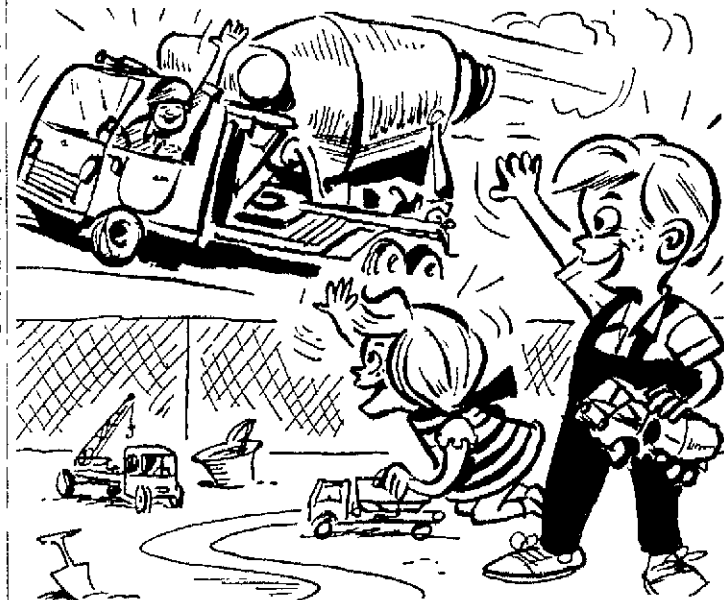

From 1958-59 to 1965-66 the fatality rate from accidents not for these accidents.

Boys Prepare For Life on Own In Home Ec.

Home economics used to be a "girls only" registration line. Now, high schools are experimenting with all boy "chef's classes." Short on credits, the course is long on preparing young men to handle day to day routines usually assumed by their moms.

Designed to make boys self-sufficient when they go off to college or away-from-home jobs, such a home economics class zeros in on the how-to of laundry, ironing, mending and cooking. Special projects and challenges allow the boys to exercise creativity and add interest to the course. But the basics of sorting, pretreating, washing and drying everything from blue jeans to cashmere sweaters get the boys off to a good start in the art of bachelorhood.

If your school does not as yet offer such a course and your boy is college- or job-bound, it is a good idea to acquaint him with the fundamentals of washing his own clothes. In the long run, it will save your freshman the embarrassment of wearing pink T-shirts due to the bleeding of red socks in the laundry. In the chaos of preparation for school or jobs, this is a genuine reality often overlooked.

Construction Play for Juvenile Roadbuilders

"Put those trucks down, get out of that sandbox, and wash up. It's time for lunch."

"But we have to finish building this road first! There's a penalty clause in our contract."

Well, odds are that no kid is that precocious, but the above dialogue between mother and brood does contain a large grain of truth. When they're engaged in down-to-earth construction play, children do indeed tend to be inordinately conscientious and painstaking, so much so that for several generations now they've been demanding — and getting — functional miniature work vehicles that do the job the way it's supposed to be done.

According to Toy Manufacturers of America, the industry's trade association, the kids are being treated to about $48,800,000 worth of such products in 1969, or something like 12,420,000 pieces of mobile construction equipment along the lines of cement-mixers, bulldozers, cranes and scoops, roadgraders, haul-and-dump trucks, and sandloaders. As these are about a foot long, on the average, you can figure they'd represent a line of traffic extending 2,333 miles — or the approximate highway distance between New York and Helena, Mont.

Their design (usually to scale), their operating parts (steerability is a recent major innovation), their realistic details, and their bright colors (red and yellow predominate) are among the features that contribute to the steady popularity of these toys. They're produced either in steel, plastic, aluminum or zinc, though several brands combine metal bodies and plastic components.

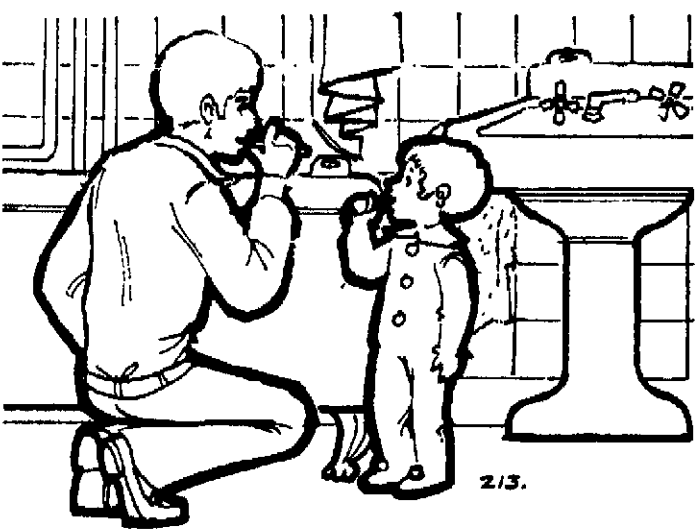

An estimated 85 per cent of the pint-sized work vehicles are bought for, or by, kids in the two- to nine-year age bracket. About one juvenile builder or roadworker in 11 is a girl.

Winter Wear Is Warm, Fashionable

Blow as he might, the North Wind will have a hard time frost-biting this year's crop of head, neck and hand fashions. Sumptuously warm — knitted accessories of acrylic yarns welcome machine washing as easily as they rebuff the cold air. Selection is almost unlimited. Choose from doldrum-chasing bright patterns of stripes, subtle solids or handsome tweeds in a wide variety of knits. Most scarves, berets, mittens, caps, hoods, dickies, helmets and gloves are available in matched sets. It's good news when fashion dishes up warm, washable, good looking winter accessories.

Parents and Children

By Arnold Arnold

When Should Child Start Brushing Teeth

Children like to imitate their parents. But in order for your child to be able to copy you, you must show him the meanings of the things you do, as soon as he can understand them. He'll need frequent opportunities to watch you do what you would like him to do.

If you confine your tot almost constantly to his playpen or room, he will not have a chance to observe you. For the sake of his safety and your convenience, you obviously cannot allow your child to be underfoot all day and at every moment. But he needs to be with you when it comes to things that you want him to learn from you.

Allow your toddler to be with you in the bathroom, for example, when you brush your teeth. He'll want to be like you. He will eventually ask you to let him do the grown-up things he sees you doing. He'll want to brush his own teeth as soon as he can.

Small Brush

All he'll need is his own little toothbrush. Get one that is small and that has soft bristles. At first, until he gets the idea, allow him to "brush his teeth," using only warm water. Teach him to spit out as you do. Show him how to brush, up and down, front and back, all the teeth in his mouth. It will take your child many months to learn to do this properly. But let him practice. Help him occasionally. The most important thing is to let him see you do what he should learn to do for himself.

This same principle applies to other essential areas of early learning, such as taking off his shoes and socks, undressing himself, unbuttoning, unzipping and unbuttoning his clothing, and brushing his hair. He'll need your help for a long time. But you can shorten this learning period by letting your tot feel that he may do what you do whenever his doing so is practical.

Keep in mind that your child must learn to "undo" many, many times before he can be expected to try to "do." He's

Cheerleading Clinic to be At Kimberly High School

Wisconsin Cheerleading Association will sponsor three one-day cheerleading clinics which are open to all junior and senior high school girls and school cheerleading advisors. They will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Nov. 6 at Jefferson High School, Nov. 7 at Kimberly High School and Nov. 8 at Osseo High School. Luncheon will be served at each school.

Cheerleaders and advisors at each school will serve as co-sponsors and co-hostesses at their respective schools.

The one-day workshops will give cheerleaders, advisors and prospective cheerleaders the opportunity to learn new cheers, motions and techniques and to gather ideas for pep rallies, uniforms, fund raising and promoting school spirit.

An evaluation session will also be part of the program. The workshop enables cheerleading squads to perform before the clinic audience and have the cheers evaluated by one of the nation's foremost cheerleading authorities.

All three clinics will be directed by a staff member from the National Cheerleading Association (NCA), Dallas, Tex. The association began conducting clinics and camps in 1949, and in the past 21 years it has trained over 4,000,000 cheerleaders.

Allergies Require Easily Kept Home

Evelyn Ketchum Gray is an expert on home furnishings for allergy sufferers. Her model dust-free apartment in Springfield, Mo., is the result of years of research in making life more comfortable for victims of various airborne irritants.

According to Mrs. Gray, it is possible to reduce the amount of dust in a home and still have a warm, livable, decorative environment. In combination with her own allergy-free products, her basic secret for easy, effective housekeeping is washability. "The importance of a clean home for allergy patients cannot be overstressed," says Mrs. Gray.

Being a homemaker herself, she is well aware of the work involved. From this point of view, her suggestion to select only easy-to-clean furnishings makes sense for all homemakers — even without an allergy patient in the family.

Rev. Janssen Discusses Stand Of Clergy on Social Issues

KAUKAUNA — "Should Clergy Become Involved in Social Problems?" was the title of a speech given by the Rev. Orville Janssen, Appleton, at the opening meeting of the Catholic Women's Study Club Thursday evening. The women met for dinner at Lamer's Tearoom, Little Chute.

In answering this question, the speaker referred to "Documents of Vatican II" compiled by Walter M. Abbott, S.J., general editor, which stresses the intimate bond between the church and mankind.

"The welfare problem is much deeper than we know, and it is our duty as Christians not to make rash judgment, but to share the burdens of the poor. Unlike big industry, the down-trodden have no powerful lobbyist, so consequently they need a leader to fight their cause. Often those who commit themselves, with the highest principles in mind, are classified as publicity seekers — but who would pay such a price for publicity when it means losing one's friends, being treated with contempt and even put behind prison bars," said Father Janssen.

Panel Discussion

"Religion in the News" will be discussed by members at a Feb. 12 session at the home of Mrs. L. J. Nerlo, and on March 12 there will be a panel discussion on "The Church's Relationship with the Jewish People. Our Brothers" at the home of Mrs. John VanDeLoe. Panel members will be Mrs. Sheridan Joyce, Mrs. Francis Grogan, Mrs. Merlo and Miss Liothe McCarty.

Officers for Year

Mrs. Edwin Thelen will present "The World of the Great Prophets—Their Thoughts and Teachings" and a selection from the Prophet Isaiah at the April 9 meeting at the home of Mrs. Walter Hartzheim. Officers will be elected. The season will close with a May 14 dinner at Lamer's Tearoom.

Officers for the year are Miss Ella LaPerriere, president; Mrs. VanDeLoe, vice president; Mrs. Hartzheim, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Otto Aufreiter, historian; Mrs. Merlo, librarian, and Mrs. Hartzheim, press chairman. Mrs. Joyce serves as program chairman assisted by Mrs. Thelen, Mrs. Merlo, Mrs. VanDeLoe and Mrs. Elmer Grebe.

Toastmistresses To Discuss Conversation

"An interesting woman is ... a stimulating conversationalist." will be the theme of the Thursday meeting of the Appleton Toastmistress Club. A 6:45 p.m. dessert will open the meeting in rooms 111 and 114 of the YMCA.

Mrs. Leroy Sommers will serve as topicmistress for an extemporaneous discussion of the evening's theme. Guest speaker, Mrs. Bernard Ritterbush, speech teacher at Kaukauna High School, will discuss diction and enunciation. Miss Unita Kehl will discuss, "What'll I Say?"; Mrs. David Fulton, "Do's and Don'ts About Conversation," and Mrs. Harold Christen, "Traits of a Good Conversationalist."

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Gordon Lathrop, 1119 Rankin Court.

Two-Year Olds Could End the War

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Bill Cosby said the other night, "Give me 200 2-year-olds and I can take over any country in the world. Without anyone ever telling them anything they know exactly how to shut the power off in your house, flood it or set fire to it."

I found Mr. Cosby's estimation to be a bit conservative. He not only neglected to mention how a 2-year-old can transfer a normal, healthy adult into a glassy-eyed Captain Kangaroo drop-out. He forgot to point out that 2-year-olds make a marine look like Woody Allen.

Stories of 2-year-olds come over my desk that would make my hair stand on end. One mother while bathing her young daughter was bit on her neck faster than you can say, "Barnabas Lives." Another was sitting on her mother's lap when the child stood up suddenly under her mother's chin, nearly severing the tongue. While chasing a naked bathtub escapee through the house, a babysitter slipped in the sudsy trail and is in traction.

Construction in a small town in Massachusetts was set back 30 days when a 2-year-old got his hand caught in a sewer pipe and had to be cut out. Eight emergency vehicles were summoned to a Texas suburb when a youngster scaled the water tower to see whether the parachute on her Captain Astro doll would really open. Traffic in a midwestern city was tied up for 13 city blocks as a crazy-out-of-control cat flew at low altitude. It seems a 2-year-old had bathed it in paint thinner.

I invited a group of mothers of 2-year-olds to participate in a dialogue to see whether or not Bill Cosby was exaggerating.

"My 2-year-old could definitely end the war in Vietnam," said one pretty blonde. "She'd talk 'em to death."

"I don't know," pondered another. "That's been tried. I think my 2-year-old son could bring a nation to its knees by sabotaging the plumbing. They'd be so busy retrieving socks, goldfish, washclothes, turtles, small boats, shoes and oatmeal boxes, they wouldn't have time to fight a war.

"I have 2-year-old twins," said one mother. (We all crossed ourselves.) "I'm no expert on warfare, but I would suspect if my two were turned loose to bite and spit, we'd have peace in a hurry."

"I think we're overlooking the most vital weapon 2-year-olds possess," said a tall brunette. "They're adorable. While my daughter is standing there knotting her handkerchief and reciting poetry, she has just turned the refrigerator dial up to seven and shared her bubble gum with the dog, but she's still adorable and I wouldn't trade her for anything."

The others most likely agreed. But they wanted time to think about it.

Help Child With Stress Of Adjustment to School

Puzzling behavior changes in the young child may crop up after the first few weeks of school, according to Helen Dawe, child development specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

Even after an "easy" adjustment to the first days of school, new and upsetting situations for the child may develop. Refusal to go to school and changes in toilet control, sleep patterns and eating habits may occur because of the new stresses with which he is faced.

Problems which seem insignificant often loom large in a child's mind. Worries about missing the bus, not being able to get jackets off or not having a friend to walk to school with are all "small" things that can distress the young child.

Criticism from a teacher, real or imagined, or teasing, bullying and name-calling by fellow classmates can make the sensitive child want to avoid the school situation altogether.

Children often find it difficult to talk about what bothers them most, so it's important to be alert to signs of a child's readiness to tell something.

It may be perplexing that a child seldom mentions school. Being too eager to get information from him or laughing at things he does say can cause him to "clam up" about his experiences.

Questions like, "What did you

Y Will Offer Guitar Lessons

Guitar lessons for beginners and intermediates will be offered Tuesdays and Thursdays at the YMCA. Tuesday classes, which are scheduled to begin Oct. 21, will be from 6:15 to 7 p.m. for beginners and from 7 to 7:45 p.m. for intermediates. Beginning Thursday will be a beginners' class from 7 to 7:45 p.m. and an intermediate from 7:45 to 8:30 p.m. The classes will continue for five weeks.

Members of the classes will learn to play the guitar for their own enjoyment or with small groups. Those having guitars should bring them, but it is not necessary to have one to take the course, as the instructor has a couple on which to practice.

Mrs. Sue Whitfield, Lawrence University, will be instructor. Classes are limited in number. Registration may be made at the Y Main Desk. It is not necessary to be a member of the Y to enroll.

do today?" may be difficult for the child to answer. He may have had so much happen that he can't sort out specific things to tell. Simpler questions like, "Did you draw pictures today?" may bring a more rewarding answer and keep the lines of communication open.

Manager's Wife Tightens Up During World Series Games

By SHEILA MORAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Being married to a baseball player is one thing and being married to a manager can be quite another. Mrs. Gil Hodges, who has lived through both, thinks the latter might be just a little worse.

"When your husband is a player, you focus your attention on that man," she said. "When he is a manager, each man is your man and you worry about them all."

Joan Hodges, the wife of the amazing manager of the New York Mets, has been married to baseball for 21 years and she still finds herself fighting to control her feelings at every game.

"At Atlanta, when we clinched the pennant, I did something I hadn't ever done in baseball. I thought about that same day last year. I thought about Gil's heart attack and how I stood outside his hospital room in Atlanta and the thought of it made me cry."

Recalls Happy Day
"Until that day, my happiest moment in baseball was when Gil knocked in both runs for the Brooklyn Dodgers in the seventh game in 1955 against the Yankees. It was the first Series the Dodgers ever won."

Gil Hodges was already a Dodger idol when he was first introduced to Joan Lombardi, a Brooklyn girl, at a party. Since then, she has had four children, endured the long nights when he is on the road and learned the finer points of baseball.

"I've learned to think the way he thinks," she said.

This striking, red-haired 43-year-old has also developed some of Gil's qualities—his privacy, his firmness, his stoicism. She is extremely conscious of propriety, even in strangers.

Enforces Propriety
A small boy approached her with some caution in the official box before the second game in Baltimore, but in the process he blocked the view of Mets General Manager John Murphy.

"I've come all the way from New York," the youngster said. "May I please have your autograph?"

"Say excuse me to Mr. Murphy," she told the boy. Then she wrote "Mrs. Gil Hodges" on the boy's baseball. The youngster stood there, still blocking Murphy's view of the pregame ceremonies, and Mrs. Hodges said again, sharper this time, "Say excuse me to Mr. Murphy."

Hodges protects his wife to the point of forbidding interviews during games and she guards his feelings in return.

"Gil got a clean bill of health after his heart attack, but there's just so much pressure now. I wish it were all over."

Cotillion Club Plans Saturday Dinner Dance

"The Pack Will Be Back" will be the theme of the Cotillion Dance Club's informal dinner-dance Saturday evening at Butte des Morts Golf Club.

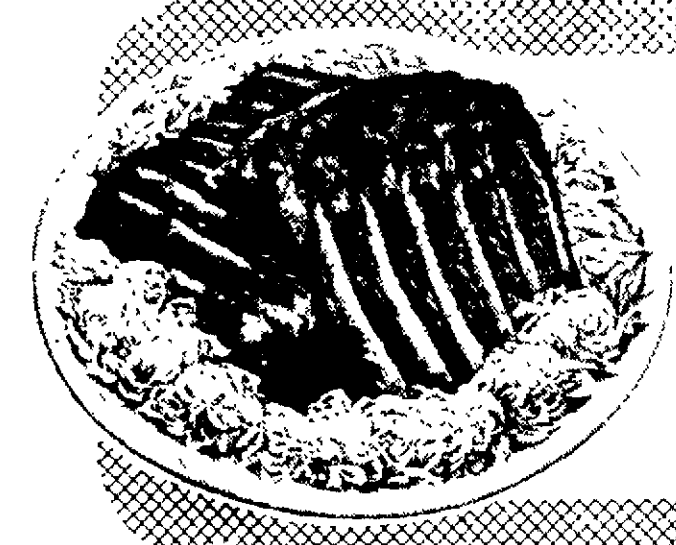

Co-chairmen of the event are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Boettcher and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Barras.

For Trump

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD
"There must be something wrong with our bidding," South remarked after the play of today's hand. "We lost 150 honors in hearts and wound up playing the hand with a mangy trump suit. How can we get to four hearts?" What do you think of South's complaint?
The play was not without its points of interest. South ruffed the second diamond with the deuce of trumps and knew enough about management of a weak trump suit to lead the three of spades next.

West won with the ten of spades and led a third diamond, forcing South to ruff with the four of trumps. South then led the ace of trumps, leaving the king of trumps in the West hand, a low trump in the dummy and a low trump in the South hand.

Declarer then began to run the hearts. West could ruff the fourth heart, but then South easily took the rest of the tricks, making the game and rubber.

It's time to commit yourself before you read on. How should South bid the hand if he wants to get to four hearts instead of four spades?

Way to Bid
If South wants to bid the hand to four hearts he should do so under an assumed name. He may score the honors at hearts, but he cannot make the game and rubber.

If the hand is played at hearts, South must ruff the second diamond with the ten of hearts. If he then draws trumps, he has only one trump left. He gives up a spade, and West leads a third diamond to punch out the last trump. West gains the lead with his other spade trick to cash two diamonds. Down two.

It may not happen anywhere else, but at the bridge table people sometimes complain when they should be thanking their lucky stars.

Daily Question
As dealer, you hold: S- K Q 10, H- 8 7 3, D- A K Q J 5, C- 7 3. What do you say?
Answer: Bid one diamond. Even though you have 15 points in high cards, an extra ten-spot and a good five-card suit, you should not consider opening with 1-NT. Avoid bidding notrump when your strength is concentrated in two suits, with the other two suits wide open.

Air Swallowing
Can Cause
Intestinal Gas

Even perfectly healthy people are likely to be suffering from a condition called "aerophagia" — which is really just the medical term for "air swallowing."

Everyone swallows air, a New York City gastroenterologist, Dr. Jerome Weiss, reports in "Medical Times," a publication for physicians. While eating and drinking, and especially during periods of excitement, tension, anxiety or just plain annoyance, a great volume of air may be swallowed.

Aerophagia is the most common factor responsible for intestinal gas. Although the condition itself is usually not serious, it can be painful. Until recently, it was also difficult to treat, Dr. Weiss writes. However, he reports that in a carefully controlled study, a tablet called Phazyme proved to be "most effective in relieving gaseous distress."

We just turned coffeemaking upside down!

Most flavor from every coffee bean—most flavor from every cup.

Wild claim? No. It's true. We've actually found a way to get the most out of our coffee beans, so you get the most flavor out of every cup. How? It's all in the way we roast our coffee. Upside down.

The old way—You see, most coffee companies treat the different kinds of coffee beans that go into a coffee blend as if they were all alike. They blend all the beans first, then roast them at the same temperature for the same length of time.

Blend and roast. Trouble is all these beans are not alike. They take to heat differently. And as a result, a lot of that good coffee flavor is lost by under-roasting. Or over-roasting.

The new upside down way—So we've just turned our coffee making upside down. We roast first, then blend. We roast each type of bean at its own particular temperature to bring out its own full flavor and aroma. Then we blend them together. The result is well worth the effort. Because now we're able to get the most out of every coffee bean. And so now you get the most flavor out of every cup of Butter-Nut. Try this new Butter-Nut Roast & Blend. We think you'll flip.

His Death Ends Their Discreet Affair

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For six years I carried on an affair with a married man. I was divorced when I met him. This man was a successful professional person and had a very high standing in the community. His wife knew nothing about our relationship. We were discreet links and his Phi Beta Kappa and never once were we seen together in public. Three weeks ago the man died suddenly. I could not trust myself to attend his funeral. I stayed home and cried myself heart out. Yesterday I gathered together some of his personal belongings. I have a strong urge to present them to his teen-age son. Among the items are a pair of my lover's solid gold cuff, relationship with his Phi Beta Kappa and never once were we seen together in public. I could tell the boy my ex-husband was a friend of his associate." Which do you think best? Please advise — Mexicali Rose

Dear Rose: Neither. Leave the man's family alone. The boy has managed so far without his father's cuff links and Phi Beta Kappa key. He doesn't need them.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Don't tell me to see a psychiatrist. I know I should but I can't afford one. Besides, the psychiatrists I've met socially are crazier than I am.

The problem is that I love company but overnight guests make me nervous. We have a lovely home, plenty of room and every convenience, but I cannot sleep when company is in the house. I'm up all night wondering if there is dust on the fixtures or if the guest can hear my husband snoring across the hall.

I hate myself for being such a nut but that's the way I am. Can you help me? — L. E. M.

Dear L. E. M.: I see no reason why you must have overnight guests if they make you nervous. If you owe friends or relatives overnight hospitality, put them up in a hotel or a motel nearby and pick up the bill.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is it true that a person can heal a sty on his eye by rubbing a gold ring on it? I always thought this was nonsense until discovered for myself that it actually does work.

When I told this to a few friends they looked at me as if I had lost my mind. How do you explain it? — Goldie

Dear Goldie: According to those who know more about sties than eye (sorry — couldn't resist it), they are infectious and a person who has a sty should not fool around with home remedies. The fact that your sty disappeared after you rubbed the gold ring on it is purely coincidental. The gold ring had no curative powers.

Now warts — that's another story. Many people have rid themselves of warts (which are virus infections) by "wishing" them away and performing other acts of hocus-pocus which have no basis in the healing sciences. Why? Nobody knows!

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Send for the booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 35 cents in coin with your request. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright 1969)

Reduce Home Injuries With 'Accident-Proofing'

With youngsters back in school and around the house more often from now through next summer, you should give serious thought to "accident-proofing" your home.

Home accidents cause a shocking number of injuries and fatalities each year — in fact, according to National Safety Council figures, almost three times the number of disabling injuries occur in the "safety" of the home, than in the "danger" of the highway.

Safety experts say that most home accidents could be prevented by eliminating hazards around the house. They also point out that many minor injuries incurred at home needlessly develop into major infections because prompt and proper first aid is not administered or because the home is sadly lacking in basic first aid equipment.

Tips for Safety

To help lower the annual tally of some 27,000 fatalities and 4 million disabling injuries from home accidents, first aid authorities making the following recommendations for accident-proofing your home and updating your home first aid supplies:

In the kitchen, keep utensils and sharp objects out of reach. Make it a habit to turn pot handles inward on the stove so prying hands can't reach them. Make sure laundry solutions, bleaches, insecticides and other potentially dangerous fluids are inaccessible to children.

Keep electrical outlets taped if there are toddlers in the home. Check for and repair frayed wires on electrical appliances, being especially careful with seldom-used equipment such as Christmas tree lights.

Remove Potential Dangers
Make sure hallways and stairs are always well-lighted. Never permit such areas to be blocked or littered with children's toys.

See that the areas in which children play are free of such potentially dangerous items as scatter rugs, standing lamps, furniture with sharp edges, etc.

In the bathroom, make sure all medicinals are properly labeled and the potentially dangerous ones high up, out of children's reach. Discard any medicines over a year old, or with illegible labels.

Periodically check your medicine cabinet.

The Ailing House

Insulation Keeps Water Tank Dry

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: I have a very cold well water tank in my basement. In the summer there are times when it sweats so badly a lot of water runs on the tiled floor. What is the remedy for this? — Elkhorn, Wis.

A: Cover with any of the plastic foam-type insulating materials, secured with waterproof cement, wire or metal straps. Consult a plumbing supply house or good lumber yard. For sweating cold water pipes, you can wrap with insulating tape.

Q: A knowing neighbor told me that before replacing old, dried-out putty with new I should apply linseed oil to the frame. Is this true? — Baltimore.

A: True. The oil will keep the dried-out wood from drawing oils out of the new putty. Thinned-down house paint will also do very well.

Q: My problem is a shower with baked-on enamel walls. They have become discolored from soap film and I cannot get this off. Do you know any product which will clean them? — Waterbury.

A: Sure do, friend. A foam-type bathroom cleaner made by S. C. Johnson, Racine, Wis. Called "CREW" and sold widely in supermarkets. I have found it excellent.

Q: While discussing house heating costs with a friend, he suggested that I consider installing two thermostats: one for the bedrooms, one for the living area of our ranch house. Is this practical? — Worcester.

A: This would be well worth considering. You can have one set for normally lower temperatures in bedrooms, so you use less fuel. Yet the living areas are at the setting you find most comfortable. An excellent idea.

Wellers Win Bridge Event At Tournament

The Wisconsin-Upper Michigan Bridge Association met Friday through Sunday for a sectional tournament at Eau Claire. Tournament director was Mrs. John Fourness.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Weller were winners of the national masters mixed pair game Friday evening.

Others attending from the Fox River Valley area were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Theise, Kauna, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rider, Green Bay. Each placed in their sections of the open pair event.

Bird's Nest Fern Is Dramatic Plant

For a dramatic single display plant, try the bright yellow-green Asplenium, or bird's nest fern. Create the moisture and humidity this attractive plant likes by setting its clay pot in a saucer of water. It will do well in household temperatures between 65 and 80 degrees. Keep it away from direct sunlight.

Remember Yard Things With Fall Housecleaning

There are two facets to fall housecleaning — or should be. The outside clean-up is as important as the inside job — and it's a lot more fun, too! Because the weather is still warm enough for garden hose and suds to come under the head of sport rather than work, enlist the aid of youngsters to help speed up the outdoor cleaning schedule.

Months of dust and grime have settled on garden furniture, on screens and porch blinds and conspicuously in the bird bath! Making sure that outdoor furniture and accessories will face the winter scrubbed clean ensures their use for many more seasons.

A couple of pails, sponges, brush and garden hose are all you need in addition to soap or detergent and water for outdoor cleaning jobs. Go over the metal frames as well as the webbing or solid upholstery of the chairs and chaise with thick suds — topside and underneath. Then simply rinse each piece with the hose, and let it dry in the sun. You can use a very soft sudsy brush on elaborately designed wrought iron furniture in order to clean in the interstices without marring the paint.

A good stiff brush and extra thick suds is the best formula for washing screens. Screens collect so much grime, that a vigorous approach is needed to remove it from the fine mesh. Scrub both sides of each screen thoroughly, and give the frames a firm brushing too. Turn on the hose and rinse; lean the screens up against the house or wall to dry.

To wash a bamboo blind simply spread it on the grass and go over it with a sudsy brush. The same holds good, of course, for Venetian blinds made of wood, metal or plastic. Incidentally, an excellent cleaning tool for this job is one of those thickly padded potholder mitts. Saturate the mitt with suds and just slide your hand over each slat. You wash both sides of the blind in a single operation.

It's a blessing if you have a hot water faucet outdoors — a convenience that more families are having installed. For hot suds — or at least warm suds — are needed for scrubbing out that bird bath. Scum and film from many months and many appreciative birds require considerable elbow work. Assign this job to the huskiest child you can find!

A morning's work in the backyard, doing such chores as these, can be a social affair and pleasant for everybody. And if you want to reward your young helpers with a snack, you can be sure their hands are clean!

Homemakers throughout the country have been disturbed by rising prices. Food, since it is purchased most often, and because women spend so much time shopping at their favorite local supermarket, has become the target of contention. While food costs have risen, so has the cost of medical care, recreation, transportation, services, clothing and home ownership, to name just a few items. So you can't truthfully place all of the blame on your neighborhood grocery store.

Bacteria, Viruses Are Both 'Microorganisms'

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the difference between bacteria and viruses? — W. G.

Both are "microorganisms," creatures too small to see with the naked eye, but capable of reproducing themselves — sometimes with great rapidity. Some varieties of both can cause disease. Some don't.

One great difference is in size. A bacterium is a very complicated germ, comparatively speaking. It is big enough so (when stained with dye) it can be easily seen through an ordinary microscope. A virus, however, is so small that it cannot be seen. It requires an electron microscope to be seen. It was only about 15 or 20 years ago that the first electron microscope photographs of small viruses were published.

I'll grant that you don't much care, if you are ill, whether a bacterium or a virus did it to you, but it makes a difference to your doctor.

Bacteria include (among others) the "coccal" group (streptococcus, or "strep"; staphylococcus, or "staph"; pneumococcus, which causes pneumonia; gonococcus; the colon bacillus; the bacillus of tuberculosis. And a lot of others.

The viruses cause a host of diseases, from colds and "cold sores" to hydrophobia. But the more serious virus diseases can be suppressed by vaccines: examples are smallpox, polio, influenza, rabies, measles, and most recently German measles.

We have not been able to find vaccines to prevent the bacterial diseases — pneumonia, scarlet fever, staph and strep infections. But, on the other hand, we have found the antibiotics, the "wonder drugs," which are very effective in controlling infections from them. We can't prevent them from happening again and again — but we can (usually) combat them if they occur.

The viruses are the opposite. We can prevent many of them with vaccines, but the antibiotics don't do any good — and that's why an antibiotic or "a shot of penicillin" is usually useless for a cold. That is, unless it's a cold that hangs on, and a secondary, bacterial infection has followed it.

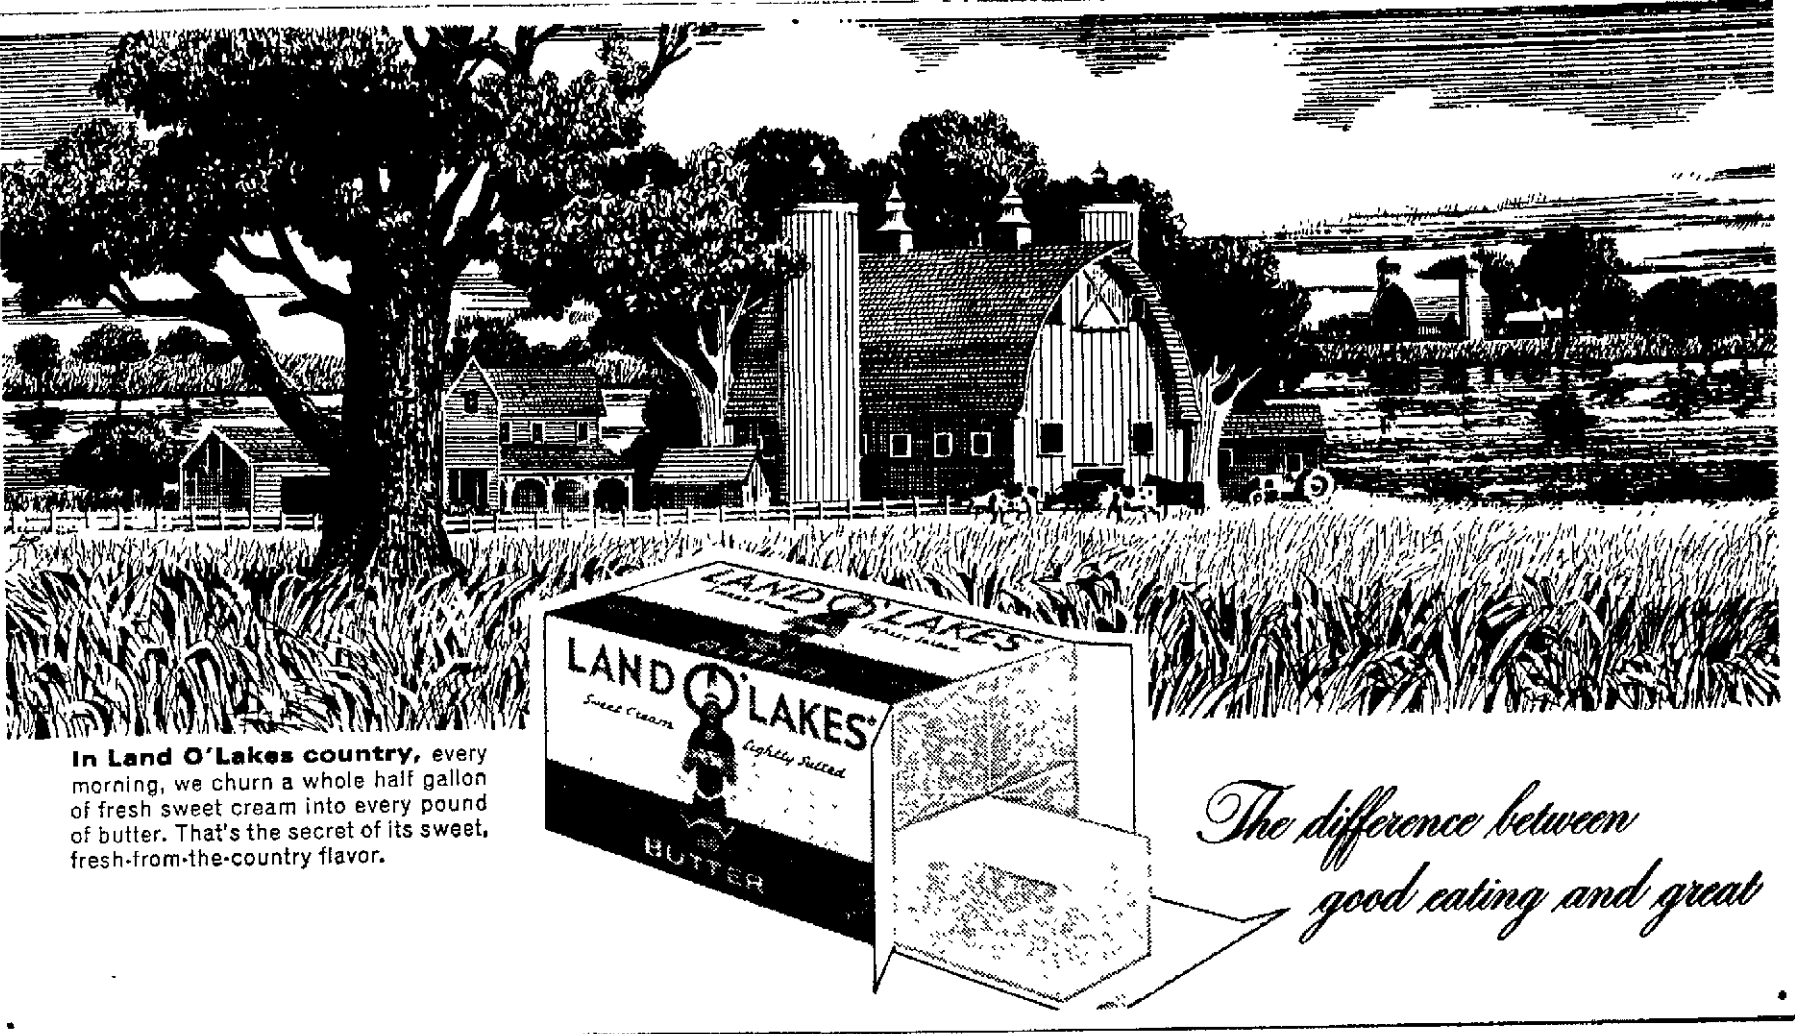

Incidentally, we haven't been able to develop a "cold vaccine," first of all because there may be a hundred or more viruses, all of which can cause colds, and second, because the common cold, even though it causes a great deal of nuisance, isn't a severe disease that affords long-lasting immunity once you've had it. The has some relationship to cancer. Maybe not the "cause of cancer," because a number of Bacteria are large enough to be trapped by special filters: viruses aren't, so for quite some time there was talk of "filterable viruses" too small to be isolated. Ultimately ways were found to study them.

Study of viruses didn't start as soon as study of bacteria. But there are still a lot of viruses about which we don't yet know enough, among them the viruses that cause warts, "cold sores," shingles, infectious mononucleosis, and others. Note to M.G.Z.: Blood in the

at all; I would report it to your doctor, though, to be on the safe side.

Regulations Prevent Stock Market Disaster

BY SYLVIA PORTER

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of five reports analyzing the economy of 1969 in light of the 1929 stock market crash and the world depression which followed it.)

In 1929, there were no rules to guide and protect the stock buying public—none at all. What few requirements the New York Stock Exchange had were so loosely administered that they were worse than nothing.

Pools of operators could — and did — manipulate stocks so they could unload them at a profit on a greedy, gullible public. Stock touts could — and did — brazenly spread rumors so they could send prices soaring and then sell out to the amateurs.

Trusted tycoons could — and did — make millions by acting against the interests of their own corporations. Unscrupulous businessmen could — and did — lie to the public about the stocks they were issuing. Famous corporations could — and did — refuse to tell their stockholders one iota about their own affairs.

It's probably hard for you to believe, but as New York Stock Exchange president Robert W. Haack reminisced during our talk the other day, "Today's elaborate structure of surveillance and regulation of the stock markets simply did not exist in 1929."

And that, I submit, is:

Distinction No. 5: Regulations.

As a direct result of the '29

Porter

holocaust, we have laws and regulations to make sure that any price declines will not be made worse by illegal manipulation. On our statute books are basic protective laws. Acting as watchdog over the securities markets is the Securities & Exchange Commission and vigilant too are other federal agencies.

Also as a direct result of the 1929 debacle, the securities industry itself is policing itself as never before. In recent years, the self-regulatory powers of the organized exchanges and the over-the-counter markets have been progressively tightened and the disciplinary powers of the self-regulatory agencies have never been tougher.

You need not push your way through dull details. Suffice it to say that a vital safeguard for Wall Street — and us — lies in the laws, rules and machinery created since '29 to prevent fraud and control manipulation. No one pretends the machinery is adequate but it exists. And as Haack says, "Ours is the envy of investors the world over."

Distinction No. 6: Awareness There Was A '29.

Now it can be said: during this past 12 months, there was a clear and present danger that your stock account might be undermined by the errors and failures in your broker's back office.

There was a clear and present danger that the paperwork explosion in Wall Street's back offices would blow some of the great houses apart — and set off a dreadful chain reaction through the land. But it didn't happen. The reason is that Wall Street itself became frightened that it was rushing toward a crisis of its own making which could destroy the whole structure. The organized exchanges and other self-regulatory bodies took strong steps to restrict the activities of firms suspected in trouble; a wide variety of corrective measures were voluntarily taken. The whole Wall Street community went on a collective spending spree to modernize its operations and plug the industry's weak spots. The paperwork problem is on the way toward solution.

Difference Between Eras

This too illustrates a significant difference between the eras, for today, in contrast to 1929, Wall Street's leaders and the industry's regulatory bodies are on the constant alert to curb abuses before they get out of hand.

The New York Stock Exchange has a network to detect unusual stock price movements and suspicious activities of any trader and the SEC is developing an early "warning system" of trouble spots. Firms which are suspected are placed under immediate curbs; stocks which seem too "volatile" also are restricted; urgent warnings are issued when speculation seems to be becoming excessive.

Of course, there have been scandals but they have been broken by the policing authorities and alert reporters before they could become national disasters. Of course, there has been manipulation but it has not been permitted to multiply into great calamity.

We have far from perfect protections but we are trying to find the pitfalls so we can build barriers against them — in time. In 1929, we didn't even know that Wall Street was a gigantic abyss until after we were in it.

Baby Expected By Mia Farrow

LONDON (AP) — Actress Mia Farrow, who once was Mrs. Frank Sinatra, and Andre Previn, chief conductor of the London Symphony Orchestra, are expecting a baby next spring.

A Previn spokesman said the musician authorized the announcement Monday but would not have anything to say about marriage plans except that "it will all proceed in order" Previn, 40, and his wife, Dory, a Los Angeles song writer, are separated. Miss Farrow, 24, was said to be in seclusion in New York. She and Sinatra were married in July 1966, and divorced in August 1968.

She won critical acclaim in the movie "Rosemary's Baby."

Presence of 6,000 off-Campus Radicals Brings Fatalistic Expectation of Chaos

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

BERKELEY, Calif. — A principal reason why the troubled University of California campus here begins classes this week with a fatalistic expectation of chaos ahead is the presence of some 10,000 youth cultists this past summer. Enough have stayed to put the strength of the street people at an all-time high of perhaps 6,000. This constitutes huge permanent cadre of alienated youth, mixing drug usage and radical political doctrine and collaborating with radical student leaders on the campus itself.

It was this alliance of student radicals and street people which provoked last spring's bloody confrontation over the People's Park, energizing much of the student body on their side. Indeed, there is a chronic threat of violence on Telegraph Avenue that can engulf the campus any time. As students registered for classes last week, Berkeley police hunting for heroin pushers tangled twice with the street people — the kind of clashes that can quickly escalate.

Evans

Novak

Combustible Combination

Thus, the street people are the spark that at any time can ignite the Berkeley powder keg. The combustible combination includes an uncertain administration, an ever more militant student body and faculty, and wrathful hostility toward the Berkeley ethos by Gov. Ronald Reagan (who plans meat-axe budget cuts against the university next year).

This makes Berkeley permanently impervious to all attempts at either pacification or soothing events such as lowering military draft calls. Indeed, some liberal faculty members who supported the Berkeley Free Speech Movement, which initiated the present perpetual crisis, now admit that concessions made to student radicals at that time have not bought peace.

"I had assumed, logically, that the granting of the demands for free speech by students would stabilize the campus," one such professor ruefully told us. "I was naive."

Want Education

The vast majority of the 28,000 students at Berkeley is still more interested in getting an education than in fostering revolution. When the radical SDS called last week for a demonstration against ROTC military training, only a corporal's guard of languid demonstrators turned up. The autumn campaign by student radicals to bring down rents in Berkeley's slums is generating only yawns so far.

But low participation is deceptive. University administrators fear that radical leaders, lacking mass support, will escalate their tactics to provoke a massive overreaction from the university and a repetition of the People's Park fiasco.

Moreover, the student radical leaders have effective faculty allies who can push issues to confrontation — as in the case of Angela Davis, the black philosophy professor who has admitted membership in the Communist party.

Provoked Crisis

The question of whether Miss Davis should be permitted to teach next semester at the university's Los Angeles campus would now be quietly making its way through the courts were it not for Prof. Donald Kalish, head of the philosophy department and a political activist with far left connections. To the consternation of the university administration, Kalish arbitrarily provoked a crisis by scheduling her for a teaching assignment one semester ahead of time.

Ironically, the Angela Davis controversy has excited less agitation at relatively peaceful Los Angeles than here at radicalized Berkeley. It could trigger disturbances at this campus, where the slender bonds of authority are further weakening in the absence of Chancellor Roger Heyns.

Exhausted from the ordeal of four years of presiding over an educational carnival, Heyns left Berkeley during the summer for an extended European visit and still has not returned. Some university officials doubt he ever will resume his chancellorship. "If Heyns comes back in the same mood as he left, I'd prefer he didn't come back," confided one university official critical of Heyns's attempt to please all sides.

Need Support

Whether Heyns stays or not, the basic problem of the Berkeley chancellor will be the restoration of order while winning the support of the majority of students. On a campus where tension has degenerated into violence, where arson is becoming commonplace (including two attempts on university buildings in recent weeks), and where the street people of Telegraph Avenue pose a constant threat, this constitutes the most difficult task in American education. Yet, it is different only in size, not in kind, from what many other university administrators confront on other college campuses this autumn.

Kaukauna Man Found Innocent In Burglary Case

A 12-member Outagamie County Court Branch 2 jury, following about 30 minutes of deliberation Monday afternoon, found a 36-year-old Kaukauna man innocent of burglarizing Consolidated Construction Co. in the Town of Greenville June 1.

Joseph Vanden Hogen, 1909 Main St., formerly of Oshkosh, was charged following investigation by Outagamie and Grand Chute police. He pleaded innocent June 6 and has been free on bond.

Police discovered the burglary and a short time later apprehended Vanden Hogen following a chase through a field. His car was parked near the scene.

Testimony revealed that although Vanden Hogen was caught near the building, no one had seen him inside nor was there any physical evidence that he had been inside the building.

Investigation of Secret Meeting Charges Sought

Supv. Joseph DeBruin, Town of Buchanan, defended the committee's action, saying, "Any committee chairman can call any meeting he wants without notifying The Post-Crescent."

A motion by Karras to have the board instruct the public properties committee to "properly contact the city" lost in a voice vote. A request for a roll call vote by Kloes was rejected by board chairman Sylvester Esler, Appleton.

Earlier, Esler ruled that a motion by Supv. Charles Wussow, Appleton, to delay all action on the jail until next May, had lost in a close voice vote. Esler had previously indicated he supported such a delay.

Wussow said the safety building should be delayed in consideration of Gov. Warren Knowles' request for a cutback in capital outlays to help right inflation.

V. A. Verhulst, jail inspector for the state division of corrections, told the board he did not believe the construction moratorium applied to projects already started. He added he also did not know if the order to correct the county's jail facilities could be vacated. That, he said, would have to be determined at a higher level.

Hiler also objected to any delay. He said it would be four months before they were ready to advertise for bids on the project and the board could still stop the building at that time.

A time table provided by Sauter Seaborn Ltd., architects for the projects, lists Feb. 15 as a tentative date for advertising for bids and March 11 for the bid opening.

Estimated construction start is April 1 with a potential completion time of June, 1971.

Current jail plans are for a three-story building constructed between the courthouse and courthouse annex to house the jail, sheriff's department and courtroom.

First Action on Moratorium Seems Light along the Lawe Street bridge by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

There were other signs of opposition to the moratorium which some apparently felt was joined by the high school's plan for an afternoon program.

A letter from the Kaukauna Elks Lodge Tuesday voiced opposition to the activities by the high school students. The students were to be let off from classes at 1 p.m. to attend several small discussion groups led by Lawrence University students.

School officials who contend the school is not participating in the nationwide moratorium criticized the Elks action.

Supt. Julian Biehler said the Elks' protest was unwarranted because no Elk member checked with school officials to learn what was being planned. He called the program a learning experience.

Youth Pleads No Contest In Drug Case

Testimony will be taken Oct. 28 in the case of a 17-year-old Appleton youth who Tuesday afternoon pleaded no contest to three drug and narcotics charges.

Frank Cardin, 1513 E. Tracy St., remains free on bond. He was to have had a preliminary hearing Tuesday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, but prior to the start of the hearing, he entered the pleas.

He is charged with delivering a dangerous drug (LSD) without a prescription on Aug. 22; possessing a dangerous drug (LSD) on Sept. 12; and possessing marijuana on Sept. 12.

The charges were brought following investigation by Appleton police.

Cardin was waived to Court Branch 2 following a hearing Oct. 30 in Juvenile Court.

His attorney had indicated he might appeal the waiver, but he said Tuesday that in Cardin's interest, the appeal would not be pursued.

Judge Nick F. Schaefer did not make a finding, pending the taking of testimony. If convicted, Cardin faces a maximum sentence of 11 years in prison.

Plan to Combine Counsel, Commissioner Jobs Blasted

Plans to combine the jobs of county corporation counsel and family court commissioner "ad" came under fire from some Outagamie County Board members Tuesday but no formal action was sought to halt the proceedings.

However, the board's personnel committee, which made the decision to combine the two offices, did some back-tracking and conceded board action would be necessary to make the action formal.

An ad seeking applicants for the combined job has appeared in a number of state newspapers.

The corporation counsel's job is now full time while that of family court commissioner is part time. The county board hires the corporation counsel while the three county judges and circuit judge select the court commissioner.

Authority Challenged
Supv. John Schreiter, Appleton, a member of the courts and justice committee, challenged the personnel committee's authority to make a policy change in a job description. Only the entire county board has that authority, he said.

He also charged that attempting to combine the two positions was hurting the county's chances of getting a qualified person as corporation counsel.

"If you ever hoped to get talent in this office, this ad has squelched it," Schreiter said.

Supv. Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, chairman of the personnel committee, said the decision was made after it was learned that Fond du Lac County successfully had combined the two jobs.

"The county board will have to determine at the time of hiring whether the two jobs are

Man Jailed 20 Days for Beer Fracas

Guilty Plea Entered To Disorderly Charge At Combined Locks

One of several young persons involved in a disturbance early Oct. 6 at a Combined Locks beer bar this morning was sentenced to 20 days in the Outagamie County Jail.

Francis Vandenberg, 21, route 4, Appleton, pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct.

Patrolman Thomas Jansen of the Combined Locks Police Department testified that Vandenberg, while at Schuler's Shack, grabbed Linda Kramer by the hair and pulled her off a bar stool.

Jansen said Vandenberg then knocked all of the windows out of her car with an axe.

Vandenberg told the court he used a chain from his motorcycle, and not an ax, to break one window, not all of the windows, in Miss Kramer's car.

Vandenberg said he broke the window to get at the axe that was in her auto. He also told the court Miss Kramer had a knife which she earlier had used to stab his friend.

Judge Nick F. Schaefer, saying there "could have been a tragic free for all" in the bar, cautioned Vandenberg against taking the law into his own hands. He granted Vandenberg Huber Law Privileges.

Police said they will attempt to get a 17-year-old Appleton youth involved in the early morning disturbance into Outagamie County Juvenile Court.

Board Votes to Keep Agreement

City Wants Water Contract, Town Doesn't

The Appleton Board of Public Works has voted against severing ties with a Town of Menasha sanitary district through which the city supplies water to some 27 isolated Appleton residents in the Garden Court area.

The vote against terminating a 1947 agreement with Town Sanitary District Number 2 came Tuesday during the same meeting in which the board acted in favor of cooperating with the town to extend W. Calumet Street westward from S. Oneida Street.

Independent Wells
The town sanitary district had requested termination of the water contract, explaining that town customers of District 2 had recently petitioned to be connected to the town's main water source, Sanitary District Number 4.

District 4, unlike District 2 which depends on Appleton for its supply, has independent wells. The line leads from the city through a portion of the town, and hooks back to serve the city residents at the end of the line. It is believed the state Public Service Commission may have to mediate.

In a separate action, the towners either would also have works board recommended that to accept town water—at rates the city council accept a resolution higher than the city's—or re-tion by Tenth Ward Ald. George Schwaibauer to cooperate with

Sewerage Plant Funds Okayed For Neenah

Construction Planned To Update Equipment For Treating Effluent

NEENAH-MENASHA — Construction work totaling at least $160,000 has been authorized by the Neenah-Menasha Sewerage Commission.

About $125,000 will be needed to update some of the treatment plant's equipment to bring its capacity to a point where it can handle the incoming sewage. It will cost at least $35,000 to install chlorination equipment to comply with state requirements.

The construction is aimed at bringing the plant's handling capacity to 19 million gallons a day.

According to Ronald St. Laurent, plant manager, the work will be ready for bidding near the end of the year with completion set for late spring or early summer.

Construction on the two projects will be carried out at the same time, St. Laurent said, and probably by the same contractor.

The commission decided to purchase its own equipment so it could have more control over the types which are installed.

K-C's Payment

Commission members meeting Tuesday night decided to accept Kimberly-Clark Corporation's "voluntary contribution" of $8,700 to solve its dispute with the commission. The vote was 3-2, the same as when the commission decided to drop its fight for a $62,000 back payment, which two members argued the industry owed the commission for treatment of Lakeview Mill effluent.

Gilbert Krueger and Adam Haber again voted not to accept the money.

Courtney Plat

In other action the commission decided to charge residents of Courtney Plat, in the Town of Neenah, $75 per year for treatment of their sewerage plus interest for the past year when the charge was doubled. They had previously paid $36 annually on a contract basis with the commission.

Personnel Director Sought for Winnebago

OSHKOSH — The coordinating and labor relations committees in a joint committee vote Tuesday night unanimously recommended that Winnebago County employ a full-time personnel director.

A resolution to that effect will appear on the agenda when the county board holds its annual budget session on Nov. 5.

Before meeting with the labor relations committee, a subcommittee of the coordinating committee, headed by Menasha Supv. Ted Neely recommended that action on a county administrator be deferred until the county board takes action on the personnel director.

County Administrator

Earlier this month, the subcommittee unanimously voted to push ahead on hiring the personnel director and delay the county administrator proposal for at least six months.

Oshkosh Supv. Orrin King, chairman of the coordinating committee, who strongly advocates the hiring of the county administrator, was not overjoyed at the subcommittee's recommendation.

"I'm disappointed you made this decision without first visiting a county with a county administrator," King said.

"With additional time now, I will make it a specific objective to visit other counties," Neely told King.

This year, $15,000 was budgeted by the county board for an administrator. However, the

NHS Students March for Peace

NEENAH-MENASHA — A spokesman for the group Chanting "March for Peace," some 55 Neenah High School students left school this morning and walked to both Menasha and St. Mary high schools to entice other students to join their protest against the Vietnam war.

Although the Neenah students marched up and down in front of both schools, at times yelling "chicken" because students would not leave the schools, they received little apparent support from the Menasha students.

Two Menasha High students climbed out of first floor windows to join, but Menasha High School principal Thomas Kneusel said he didn't know of any others participating.

And at St. Mary, the Rev. David Kiefer, administrator, said many of the students didn't even know the Neenah students were outside.

Father Kiefer noted that St. Mary social studies classes had scheduled discussions on the Vietnam war, as did Menasha High social studies groups.

The Neenah High students said they left their school right after reporting to home rooms, which start out each school day.

In a fast clip, they marched down Commercial Street to Tayco in Menasha and onto Menasha High School. Several of the marchers and some of the students at Menasha High were wearing black arm bands.

Along the route, the students held up their hands in peace signs for cars and pedestrians. The pupils were representatives of the sophomore, junior and senior classes.

Menasha Council to Review Planning for Fire, Housing Codes

MENASHA — Application for approval of a workable program for the city, which would qualify it for federal redevelopment and urban improvement funds, will come before the Menasha common council late this month or early in November.

That's the word from Redevelopment Director Robert Osheim, who said he is working on an application form right now.

"The only thing the city really needs now is a minimum housing code," he said.

Revised Fire Code

The city will also require a revised fire code, which has already been approved by the city plan commission, and commitments to develop a comprehensive plan and a modified building code.

Osheim has already written up a model minimum standards housing code, drawing upon several codes already being used by communities in the state, which could be used by the common council during consideration of a code.

A code needs to be passed six months prior to certification of a workable program by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Osheim believes that the city's efforts towards establishment of a comprehensive plan, which has been prepared by Victor Gruen Associates, Los Angeles, but has not yet been approved, will be enough to satisfy HUD's requirement for city-wide planning.

The city, however, will need periodic review of its workable program by HUD after it is initially approved to see it is meeting its commitments.

State Building Code

The city now follows the state building code, Osheim said, which is acceptable to HUD as "as far as it goes," but does not cover single and two-family housing.

"This would have to be done sometime," he said.

approve the appointments at their regular meeting Tuesday.

MRA President Ralph McClone said Wednesday that he hopes the MRA can reach agreement on a contract with Public Facilities Associates, Inc., Madison, the project's private developer, so that actual work can begin soon on the downtown project.

"We want to get a contract signed as soon as possible," McClone said. The MRA will meet with Thomas Neujahr project manager for PFA, and attorneys for both sides on Oct. 29 to see if they can agree on a contract that will outline the duties of the MRA and PFA in the project.

Financing Parking

The action Tuesday cleared up the mystery about how the MRA would finance the parking portion of the project, in the words of Commissioner Kenyon Kimball.

A commitment to revenue bonding through a parking authority, Kimball said, will show PFA that the MRA is ready to satisfy their commitments on the project.

The move to create a parking authority Tuesday followed an analysis of means for financing parking site acquisition and construction by bond broker Kenneth Harley of Harley, Haydon & Co., Inc., of Madison.

Harley said issuing revenues bonds through a parking authority would be an advantage over issuing general obligation bonds because they would be paid off from revenues from parking facility operation and would not require taxpayer's money.

He said the issuance of revenue bonds by a parking authority would require the signature of the city officials, however, because a parking authority is only an administrative arm of city government.

Harley received favorable response from commissioners when he said the revenue bonds could be issued in phases, to coincide with the projected three-phase development of the downtown redevelopment project.

11 Pollution Orders Given In Calumet

MADISON — Eleven Calumet County communities and businesses received pollution abatement orders Tuesday from the State Department of Natural Resources.

Several other communities also received the orders for the Manitowoc River drainage basin.

Cities of Chilton, Brillion and New Holstein; Village of Hilbert; Potter Sanitary District; Brillion Iron Works; Carnation Co., Chilton; Cold Springs Cheese Factory; Killsnake Valley Cheese Co.; Riesterer and Schnell Implement Co., Chilton, and Schwartz's Tavern, Chilton.

Others named by the department were:

Town of Manitowoc Rapids; villages of Reedsville, St. Nazianz, Valders and Whitelaw; Branch River Country Club, Maplecrest Sanitarium; Branch Cheese Factory, and Northern Laboratories, Manitowoc.

Trial Scheduled in Case of Stolen Beer

A Feb. 25 trial date was set Tuesday for James McGowan, 22, 201 State St., Black Creek, who pleaded innocent of receiving and concealing stolen property.

A bail bond study was requested after McGowan said he was unable to post a $100 bond.

Outagamie County sheriff's investigators allege McGowan received a case of beer stolen from the Shiocton American Legion Club Oct. 8. The beer allegedly was stolen by two Shiocton youths.

Band Uniform Flap

Board Passes $2.6 Million Budget

MENASHA — The Menasha Board of Education put its stamp of approval on a $2.6 million budget Tuesday evening and sent its proposal to city hall.

With the exception of a discussion on whether taxpayers money should be used to buy junior high school band uniforms, the board went into little detail on the budget, Tuesday as most members had studied it prior to the meeting.

17.5 Per Cent

The budget is basically the same as the board's budget review committee recommended last week, except that $1,000 was deleted due to the member's decision not to purchase the uniforms.

The expenditures of $2,679,250 reflect a 17.5 per cent increase over the current year's expense package of $2.3 million.

"We have done real well in the education program with the money we have spent, but we have to look at whether we are excessively conservation," William Platt, chairman of the budget review committee, said.

The board, in a split vote, decided to remain conservative as far as the band uniforms are concerned, since it wanted to determine a policy on how far the taxpayers money should go for extra activities.

"This is an unnecessary frill," Robert Bryan, board member, said. Paying for the uniforms would be "watering down the chances of getting what we need in the district."

Opposed to Bryan's reaction and in favor of the uniform purchase was Robert Farrell, board member, who said, "I think this is an opportunity for us to show support for an activity other than athletics."

Dr. Alan Osterndorf, superintendent, said the Butte des Morts Junior High School students have been trying to raise money for the uniforms. He also noted that the school principal said the uniforms could moti-

In a roll call vote, Mrs. Fern Gaertner, board president, had to cast her vote to settle a tie against the purchase. She voted briefly to point out areas of particular interest. The 1970 budget detail is a large expansion over previous year's detail. The budget book not only goes into the expenditures and revenues, but also cites the district's policy on education as well as comparing it to other districts.

Osterndorf said this morning the budget will be at the library in case residents wish to view it.

Kaukauna School Budget Is Sliced

KAUKAUNA — The board of education Tuesday night deleted seven items totaling $60,500 from the proposed 1970 budget which previously had been ordered included in the spending proposal.

The action was taken after Mayor Gilbert Anderson requested that all deferrable items be cut from the proposed budget. School Supt. Julian Bichler pointed out that work on the budget cannot be finalized until after the Oct. 28 referendum on whether the school district should float a $1.8 million bond issue for school construction.

If the referendum is defeated, more than $100,000 will have to be added to the budget for the purchase of mobile classrooms, noted Bichler. These would replace rooms now being rented by the district.

The major item cut from the budget was a $30,000 appropriation for renovation of the auditorium. Joseph Schouten objected to the deletion, pointing out that improvements to the auditorium were long overdue and many complaints have been received about its condition.

Board members discussed the possibility of setting up a contingency fund and beginning a long-range capital improvement program, setting aside the money each year until sufficient funds were available for renovating the auditorium. They decided to secure cost estimates and work out improvement plans before bringing the matter to the attention of city officials.

Extra Personnel
Other cuts include $7,800 for a second high school librarian; $6,000 for a full-time school nurse; $7,000 for a driver's education simulator; $4,000 for curriculum research services; $3,300 for additional clerical help in the board of education office, and $2,400 for additional clerical help on the elementary level.

When questioned if the district could operate efficiently with these deletions, Bichler stated that if the board made the cuts, the district would merely have "done its best," indicating deletion of the items would mean they would be brought up for consideration again in the future.

Weekend Event

500 Scouts to Attend Camporee at Hilbert

HILBERT — About 500 Boy Scouts are expected to participate in the East District's second annual Camporee here, this weekend.

Registration will begin at 4 p.m. Friday at Civic Park. Tents will be set up in a field just north of the park. Boys are to bring sack lunches for Friday evening because early darkness will allow little time for cooking.

Activities will begin at 8 a.m. Saturday in the park. The competitive events will include knot tying, rope whipping, compass course, knife and axe sharpening and use and handling of axes.

Other events will be fire making, using only flint and steel; back packing, involving packing, unpacking and repack-ing haversacks. Fun events will be a cross-cut saw race and icecapades.

Troops will be judged on total points. Blue, red and white ribbons will be awarded Sunday morning.

Church Services
Catholic and Protestant services will be conducted at 6 p.m. Saturday by the Rev. Mark Schumacher, pastor of St. Mary Catholic Church and the Rev. Kenneth Weber, pastor of St. Peter Lutheran Church, here.

Catholic services will be in the pavilion area of the park and Protestant services will be at St. Peter Church. Parents and friends are invited to attend church services with the Scouts and stay for the campfire program after. The East District Order of the Arrow dance team will perform at the campfire.

Service Troops
The Hilbert and Sherwood scouts will serve as service troops for the camporee under James Schmidt and Clem the direction of Scoutmasters James Schmidt and Clem Palmbach. Adult committeemen from both troops also will assist.

Troops are expected from Brillion, Kaukauna, Combined Locks, Little Chute, Seymour, Freedom, Black Creek, Darboy, Hilbert and Sherwood.

Meeting Set On Dump Site For Kaukauna

Town of Buchanan Won't Renew Its Contract With City

KAUKAUNA — Members of the board of public works will meet with officials of the Town of Buchanan at 6:30 p.m. Monday to discuss continued dumping at the Lehrer farm in the town.

Earlier this month, town officials indicated they would not renew the contract with the city for continued dumping and advised the city to find a new site within 30 days.

The city had been paying the township $75 per month for dumping privileges. The contract expired in August and has not been renewed. City Atty. Donald Green noted that past State Public Service Commission rulings have required municipalities to continue furnishing service to others once such service was started.

Town officials gave no indication why the contract would not be renewed. The city has a long-term contract, with extension option, with James Lehrer, owner of the dump site. The town also has contracts with Kimberly and Combined Locks for dump privileges and has not notified these communities of intent to drop the agreement.

Since receiving the notice, city officials have started investigation into incinerator costs and effectiveness in the event a satisfactory solution to the problem is not found. Officials also are working with the Fox Valley Council of Governments on a solid waste disposal study, utilizing the land-fill method.

Firemen Seek Pay Boosts of $175 a Month

Other Benefits Requested in New Kaukauna Contract

KAUKAUNA — The major item in the Kaukauna Fire Fighters Association Local 1594 contract proposal received by the personnel committee Tuesday night was a request for a general wage increase of $175 per month. It would bring the average income to $9,200 per year.

With 16 firemen involved, an additional $33,600 per year would be required. A firemen's spokesman indicated this would provide "a moderate standard of living, according to the 1967 Bureau of Statistics for Green Bay and the North-Central areas."

Firemen also asked the city to pay all of the firemen's share pension cost, which totals 75 per cent of their gross wage. Three area cities now pay 100 per cent of the pension and Kaukauna is one of seven cities — of a total of 28 paid fire departments in the state — where the city does not pay any portion of the firefighter's share of the pension.

Also requested were: an increase of $15 per month, to $25, for drivers and pump operators; an increase of $255 in the annual wage for department captains to match that of police sergeants, and that the city combine compensation of holiday and longevity pay in one sum to be paid near Dec. 1 rather than on pay day.

The contract also requests one day off, with pay, for attendance at funerals for grand-mother, grandfather, brother-in-law and sister-in-law. Presently the city allows time off for funeral leave for wife, daughter, son, father, mother, sister, brother, father-in-law and mother-in-law — the leave not to exceed three days.

Also requested were: city payments of 100 per cent of life insurance premium, now paid entirely by firemen; city payment of 100 per cent of a premium for hospitalization insurance, now paid 25 per cent by firemen; elimination of the contract clause whereby an employee loses his annual sick leave once he reaches his maximum accumulation; an increase in holiday pay from $25 to $30, and an increase to 10 rather than the present seven paid holidays.

A proposed change in the vacation schedule would provide four weeks' vacation after 12 years rather than 15 years, five weeks after 18 years rather than 20 years and six weeks after 23 years. Final request is for time and one-half pay for three hours for call-in rather than time and one-half for two hours as at present.

Total cost of the proposed changes was estimated at $50,000. Everett Bovee, spokesman for the firefighters, indicated, men were being lost to industry due to low wages and new men are hesitant to apply for positions when openings arise, due to low starting pay.

He said firemen should not be forced to work on off-duty hours to provide their families with a livelihood.

"Once we have bargained for and achieved this moderate wage standard level, the future burden to taxpayers would be

Kaukauna Guidelines

Student Dress Code Gets Board Approval

KAUKAUNA — The board of education Tuesday gave tentative approval to non-punitive dress guidelines for the school as proposed by a faculty committee of Kaukauna High School students.

Under the proposal, which is still to be studied and recommended by administrative personnel, extreme cases would be referred to guidance personnel and administration who would work with parents in an effort to solve the problem. It was generally agreed that parents rather than school officials should be responsible for student dress.

Suggested dress for girls includes blouses or sweaters and skirts or simple dresses with current lengths acceptable if undergarments or stocking tops are not visible; and collottes, pant dresses and jump suits that look like skirts, but no shorts or slacks; safe, sanitary footwear with socks and normal shoes if boots are worn to school.

In regard to transparent material, the board recommends that the first hour teacher refer the student to counselors or the administration.

For boys, suggested clothing includes long wash pants, dress pants or jeans, shirts or sweaters, with shirts buttoned, and no writing on shirts except the school emblem; safe, sanitary footwear with shoes on in school, socks, no sandals in shop areas, and no high boots. Untrimmed, untidy hair and sideburns, beards and unusual haircuts are considered "not a good appearance." It was further suggested, that these guidelines be reviewed and updated small, and they would benefit from having the best qualified firefighters available for their fire prevention and protection," the proposal said.

Other members of the bargaining team include Thomas Jansen, Sylvester Berghuis and Joseph Gasper.

School Board Committees Set

KAUKAUNA — Revised school board committees were appointed by Marshall Bayor-geon, school board president, Tuesday, the changes resulting from the death of Victor Haen and the appointment of Joseph Steger Jr. to fill his seat on the board.

Leo Driessen was named to head the personnel committee,

Serving with him will be Joseph Schouten and Richard Kuehn. Kuehn was named to head the finance committee. The other members are Steger and Gordon Lamers.

Schouten heads the building and grounds committee with assistance from Steger and Lamers. Driessen was named legislative chairman, Kuehn board of health and athletic council representative and Lamers de-legate to Cooperative Education Service Agency No. 8.

Village Legion To Study Need For Rescue Boat

LITTLE CHUTE — Members of the American Legion voted Monday night to authorize Commander O'Neil Rochon to appoint a committee to investigate purchase of a rescue boat for the Combined Locks Volunteer Fire Department.

The committee will study costs and budget conditions prior to making recommendations.

A donation of $25 was approved to the American Legion fund to assist victims of hurricane Camille, which struck the South in August. Ray Winius, membership chairman, reported 620 members had signed.

Kaukauna School Board Delays Payment of Architects' Bill

KAUKAUNA — The board of education Tuesday night refused to take action on a bill from Zarse and Zarse, Milwaukee architects, for $500 representing a fee for services rendered earlier this year.

Supt. of Schools Julian Bichler pointed out that the board had no contact with the firm and had been led to believe no consulting charges would be made if the firm could send representatives to discuss the northside elementary school problem.

The Milwaukee firm was contacted at the urging of Ald Russell Dix (4th), fiscal control board member, who felt the firm could build a school for less than the $1,500,000 previously bid by a local construction firm. He also felt they could answer fiscal control board questions concerning school construction.

Costs Listed
The invoice listed a "study of school needs and costs, one-for story versus two-story questions, and expert speakers' attendance at a Sept. 10 lecture conference" as reasons for the $500 bill.

Board members were at a loss to explain the bill, all agreeing they thought the firm was merely presenting its proposal in an effort to be selected as an architect for the new school with no monetary strings attached.

Some school board members felt the bill should be thrown out, while others felt it should be tabled. Ultimately all voted to refer it to School Board Atty. Donald Green after which action could be taken.

Board members approved a plan for the hot lunch menu to be broadcast over an area radio station after children arrived at school each day. This would permit parents to know what children were eating at noon to avoid duplication with evening meals.

The action was taken after the board received a request from the Park School Parent-Teacher Association.

Closed Noon Hour
Supt. Bichler was instructed to check with high school authorities concerning the closed noon hour after board members were informed that some students were "sneaking out" to area drive-ins for noon meals. Board members felt the closed noon hour should be enforced for all students or dropped entirely. The school requires students to remain in school for lunch hour.

Business Manager Thomas Nytes was instructed to investigate a request from parents of 21 of the 24 children attending classes in a parochial school at Hollandtown for hot lunch at that school. It was pointed out such a program could be costly as it would require a man to deliver meals from the central kitchen, entail hiring a woman to serve meals, and hiring someone to supervise the noon meal. Children would be required to eat in their classrooms as kitchen facilities are not available.

Investigate Situation
Nytes will check with Hollandtown School officials to determine whether they would permit meals to be served and with state officials to determine whether the school district is required to furnish hot meals to these children attending classes in rented quarters.

Board members voted to increase the transportation allowance of Mark Kilgas from $23 to $25 per day. Kilgas transports trainable youngsters to a special class at Plamann School.

Resignations of Miss Judith Zentner, third grade teacher, and Mrs. Virginia Netzel, high school English and speech instructor were accepted. Miss Kathryn Harkins, Appleton, was issued a contract to teach third grade and the approval was given to hire Miss Mary Pardini as English and speech teacher at the start of the second semester.

Valley District Task Force Formed

Gov. Warren P. Knowles today initiated a study of administrative district boundaries in the Fox Valley area by a task force from the Valley.

The governor appointed John P. Reeve, Appleton, to head the task force.

The governor appointed Raymond Vlasin, vice chancellor of the University of Wisconsin Green Bay, as assistant chairman of the task force.

At the same time he challenged 350 local officials and citizens to face the future with a broad outlook toward change in local government.

Knowles was the first speaker in The Post-Crescent's day-long public forum on "Planning for the Future of the Fox Valley." The forum was held at the Pioneer Inn, Oshkosh.

Facing Stresses

The Valley faces enormous stresses and strains of urban growth in the next generation, the governor said, and the state must reach out to help through proper administrative districts.

But local governments also must reach out beyond themselves to cooperate in areawide administration of traditionally local services, he said.

"Indeed, during the next 30 years quite a few local government services must inevitably seek an areawide context for their administration," he said.

Knowles emphasized that any new areawide structure of government must be subject to democratic controls and accountable to the people.

New Mechanisms

He warned that local governments must look for new mechanisms themselves or become subject to state or federal action.

"I hope and pray that Wisconsin will not be forced to the statewide administration of traditionally local functions," he added. "But this can be avoided only by maintenance of a strong system of local government which is capable of adjusting to changes as they occur."

"Over the next 30 years waves of urban growth will descend upon you," the governor said. "Depending upon how it is absorbed, it can either be a major asset or a destructive force."

Specifically, the governor warned that the new Milwaukee-Green Bay interstate highway should not be lined with hazardous ribbon commercial development, with industry and mercantile establishments strung along the entire length of the highway.

The governor said this is not good planning.

"We don't want another megapolis like the Milwaukee-Racine-Kenosha area."

Knowles pointed out that the Valley's problems are not yet as

By the year 2,000 the population of the five-county area from Fond du Lac to Green Bay will jump from about 50,000 to nearly 700,000 a gain of 45 per cent, Knowles predicted.

1,000 Officials

At the same time, within the five counties (Brown, Outagamie, Calumet, Winnebago and Fond du Lac) there are 130 separate local governments. And 1,000 elected local officials.

"Will there ultimately be 130 separate building codes," the

The governor warned that there must be areawide administration and agreement on zoning practices, sewage treatment and interceptor systems, storm water drainage, water supply, refuse disposal, air pollution control, public health administration and mass transportation, among others.

To point out the crippling inability of local government to

War Protests Across U.S. Start Peacefully

Schools, Cities, Churches
Scenes of Mourning for Dead, Demands for Peace

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Vietnam Moratorium Day demonstrations began generally peacefully today on college campuses and city streets, in churches and commuter terminals in many areas of the nation.

Lists of Americans killed in Vietnam were read in several places—ranging from the steps of the administration building at Ohio State University in Columbus to Trinity Church in New York's Wall Street financial district.

New York City's Hall was draped in black and purple mourning in accordance with Mayor John V. Lindsay's proclamation of the day as a day of observance. Both Lindsay and his Democratic opponent in the mayoral race, Mario Procaccini, attended special church services, two of hundreds of such observances.

Black Armbands

Many persons wore the black armbands and small blue and white "Vietnam Moratorium" buttons urged by sponsors of the demonstration.

Students handed out moratorium and peace literature at Cambridge's Harvard Square, rallying point for a march to Boston Common. A 70-foot banner reading "Peace" was stretched across one street.

Economist John K. Galbraith, a professor at Harvard University, told a rally of about 1,000 persons at the Harvard Business school he thought ending the war now would bring the U.S. military establishment under control.

Among those listening to Galbraith was George Cabot Lodge, son of Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U.S. peace negotiator in Paris. The younger Lodge is an instructor at the Business school. Opposition to the moratorium, surfaced in many areas.

U.S. Flags

Merritt H. Taylor Jr., president of the Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co., draped his buses and trolleys with U.S. flags to express "a feeling of patriotism."

"I just think it's time the unheard element makes itself heard. We ought to stand behind our country and stop complaining so much," he said.

Opponents of the demonstration also had urged motorists to drive with their headlights on and cars with lights burning dotted roads and highways.

Michael Maye, president of the Uniformed Firefighters Association in New York City, said all flags on firehouses were flying at full staff and would stay that way—in defiance of Mayor Lindsay's directive that city flags were to go at half staff after noon.

Hourly Prayers

In Washington, clergymen at the National Cathedral offered prayers for peace every hour on the hour. A plan to toll the cathedral bells for five minutes on the hour from 8 a.m. to midnight was abandoned.

Campus demonstrations took a variety of forms. Students at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge planted small white crosses on the Reserve Officers Training Corps parade grounds. They said the crosses symbolized the nearly 40,000 Americans killed in Vietnam.

Stand in Snow

Overnight vigils were held at several campuses, including 34,000-student Temple University in Philadelphia where 200 students remained sitting at dawn out of 500 who began the demonstration at midnight. By midday, between 700 and 1,000 stu-

Quiet Vigils Mark Day Of Protest in Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Protesters against the war in Vietnam came to the strongholds of government today to proclaim their opposition with speeches and marches and a silent candlelight vigil in front of the White House.

As a prelude, the House of Representatives stayed in session past 11 p.m. Tuesday while members on both sides of the question emotionally debated the American involvement.

Young people, quiet and well-behaved, many wearing black armbands, packed the galleries. Vietnam Moratorium Day was planned, in the words of its sponsors, to "appeal to the conscience of the American people." It grew into a nationwide affair, with Washington as the focus.

Hanoi Endorsement

President Nixon had said he would not be influenced by the demonstrations, but a Hanoi endorsement of the Oct. 15 observance brought a quick response from the administration.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, after conferring with the President, denounced the Hanoi message "a shocking intrusion into the affairs of the American people by an enemy power."

The Vietnam Moratorium committee replied that "it is regrettable that the administration would seize this straw in an attempt to discredit the patriotism of those millions of Americans who sincerely desire peace."

The open letter from North Vietnam Premier Pham Van Dong was relayed through Paris and was read to both the House and Senate. Addressed to "Dear American friends," it began: "Your struggle is a noble reflection of the legitimate and urgent demand of the American people."

Moratorium day events in the capital included speeches at various sites by senators and representatives, a rally at Selective Service headquarters, speeches on campuses and even a children's program complete with dove-decorated, helium-filled balloons.

The windup was to be in early evening with a rally at the Washington monument, a speech by the widow of Dr. Martin Luther King, and a silent candle-light march a short distance to the White House.

At a Tuesday night fund raising dinner for the Eisenhower

College, President Nixon heard Gov. Ronald Reagan of California denounce the demonstrations.

"Parades are held today in the name of peace," the governor said, "but some of those who march carry the flag of a nation that has killed almost 40,000 of our young men."

However, the debate in the House was characterized by a lack of name-calling on both sides.

Twenty-three members were prepared to speak up to an hour each—as long as the House was in session. Their effort survived two quorum calls—and the last, at 11:17 p.m., saw 210 members present—only seven short of the required majority.

"Obviously I would have felt better if we could have made the physical and spiritual sacrifice of staying up all night," said Rep. Andrew Jacobs, D-Ind., afterward, "but those around the country who have felt that they are not represented in government must feel better now."

"Tonight, the House said you can discuss this within the system and that's the important thing. When the House voted for the basic principle of free speech, that's the cool thing."

Tarr Bill for Municipalities Killed, Revived

Senate Decides To Have Another Long-Term Study

MADISON (AP)—The Senate voted Tuesday to kill the crucial Tarr task force proposal for helping municipalities with tax problems, then revived the measure while Republicans called for still another long-term study.

The Senate's GOP leadership continued to say it has enough votes to kill the bill whenever its opponents please.

"But even those who want to kill the bill recognize that there is a problem, and want an interim study," Sen. Ernest Keppeler, R-Sheboygan, said.

Keppeler, the Senate majority leader, said legislators want the Legislative Council to conduct a study and present a report in 1971.

The Tarr study group, having worked on the matter for 18 months, is calling for a new formula under which the state shares tax revenue with cities.

Proponents of the Tarr plan say it would reduce the tax discrepancies between communities, and would lift much of the burden of local property taxes.

Mayors of large cities have been urging rural legislators to yield and support the plan.

Fifteen Republicans and three Democrats voted to kill the bill, with five Republicans and seven Democrats voting in favor of the plan.

Then legislators went into caucus, after which the Senate voted 17-13 to reconsider the issue.

Sources said a Republican caucus recommended killing the Tarr plan to make way for a new study.

Crime Testimony Wanted New Jersey Orders Arrest of Sinatra

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — An arrest warrant has been issued for Frank Sinatra, who failed to heed a subpoena to an investigation on organized crime. An aide to Sinatra said he was out of the country.

The warrant, enforceable only in New Jersey, was issued Tuesday at the request of the State Investigation Commission.

In Beverly Hills, Calif., a spokesman for the singer-actor said Tuesday, "Mr. Sinatra left New York City this morning for the Caribbean and at present is unaware of the situation. We are trying to locate him now and I am certain that when he is advised of the matter he will have some comment."

The SIC said Sinatra had been served with a subpoena June 25 in connection with an investigation of organized crime throughout the state. At that time, Sinatra was aboard his yacht off Highlands, N.J.

He was ordered to appear at a private hearing Aug. 19, but his Los Angeles attorney, Milton Rudin, obtained a month's delay.

Aboard Yacht

The SIC said it had not heard from Rudin or Sinatra since, and Superior Court Judge Frank J. Kingfield issued the warrant, charging the entertainer with contempt.

If convicted, he would face up to six months in jail.

Sinatra is a native of Hoboken

and has frequently visited the state.

He was forced to sell his interests in two Nevada resorts in 1963 when state officials charged that he had been host to a Chicago underworld figure.

Sinatra once owned 50 per cent of the Cal-Neva Lodge in Lake Tahoe and 9 per cent of the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas. He sold his interests, which he said were worth $35 million, after the State Gaming Control Board recommended revocation of gambling licenses at the two resorts.

State officials said Sinatra had entertained Sam Giancana, who was officially nongrata in Nevada.

According to New Jersey court papers, Sinatra was offered a standard $2 witness fee and a $2 travel allowance. "He would not take the money," court papers said.

Milwaukee Court Told to Review Groppi Case Soon

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Supreme Court has ordered Milwaukee County Court not to wait until next week to review one of the charges against the Rev. James E. Groppi stemming from welfare demonstrations at the state Capitol.

After Groppi was arrested while leading Milwaukee welfare recipients on a 90-mile protest march to Madison last month, County Judge F. Ryan Duffy Jr. issued a warrant, citing Groppi for possible breach of probation terms.

Duffy, having refused to release Groppi from Milwaukee County Jail on bond, scheduled

a hearing for next Monday. But the Supreme Court told Duffy to hold the hearing Thursday afternoon.

Defense Motions

Meanwhile, the high court rejected defense motions for release of the Roman Catholic priest. The motions had sought a number of writs, involving habeas corpus and mandamus.

Groppi led about 2,000 students and welfare demonstrators into the Assembly chambers Sept. 29 for an 11-hour sit-in, and was charged in a Dane County warrant with disorderly conduct.

After posting $50 on that charge Oct. 2, he was immediately jailed again under a potential six-month term enacted by the Assembly under an 1848 contempt statute, whose constitutionality is being questioned in the courts by Groppi's civil rights lawyers.

Duffy's warrant involves probationary terms set down in 1968 when Groppi was given a suspended sentence on a charge stemming from a 1967 open housing demonstration.

During the march to Madison, he and a few followers were arrested in Brookfield on a charge of violating a new anti-picketing ordinance.

White House View Communists Use Moratorium

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and GOP Senate Leader Hugh Scott, both speaking with White House blessings, say the communists already are exploiting today's Vietnam moratorium movement.

And Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, linked the demonstrations to left wing groups and a "world peace conference" in East Berlin last June 25.

The vice president called upon leaders of the moratorium to repudiate a letter of support from Hanoi.

Agnew said the letter from Pham Van Dong, premier of North Vietnam, was "a shocking intrusion into the affairs of the American people by an enemy."

Recent Message

Scott got a copy of the letter from Bryce Harlow, President Nixon's chief congressional liaison man. The Pennsylvania Senator said he was sure all Americans, including the demonstrators, would resent Hanoi's message.

Allott would not disclose the source of his allegations, but he said "the basic strategy" for today's demonstration was shaped at a world peace conference in East Berlin. "That particular conference was communist oriented," Allott said.

Although Allott said moratorium organizers were at that meeting, he named no one.

He also said the Socialist Workers party, the Progressive Labor party, the Youth International party and the Students for a Democratic Society were involved in initial planning of the moratorium.

Extreme Liberals

"They're on the extreme liberal end of our spectrum," Allott said.

It seems to me that there are some questions unanswered about this protest and the people who have fomented this protest."

Scott said he knew nothing of the Allott charges, adding "I assume that the moratorium is an honest, peaceful expression of dissent . . ."

This was in line with a statement by President Nixon in a letter Monday to a college student. "On Oct. 15, I understand, many will simply be saying: 'I am for peace.' I ardently join with all Americans in working toward that goal," the President said.

Scott distributed copies of a Hanoi letter urging on the demonstrators.

"May your fall offensive succeed splendidly," the North Vietnamese premier wrote. The letter repeated the communist demand for total U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam.

Five-Day Forecast — Temperatures to average 11 degrees below normal highs of 58 and lows of 37. Cool throughout the period with only minor day to day temperature changes. Precipitation to total around one-tenth inch extreme north to one-half inch extreme south. Chances of showers or snow flurries later during the week with more rain or show likely Monday.

Sun sets at 6:10 p.m., rises Thursday at 7:09 a.m. Moon sets at 8:34 p.m.

"The Vietnamese and world people fully approve of and enthusiastically acclaim your just struggle," said Pham Van Dong.

Scott said the letter indicates Hanoi feels it is gaining because of the protests. He said North Vietnam "is already misreading the demonstration and seeking to exploit it."

"The dissent is proper," Scott said. "People have a right to do it."

But at the same time, he said he was warning in advance that the communists would capitalize on the protests.

Kara Turns Into Full Hurricane

MIAMI (AP) — Picking up strength as it moved away from the U.S. mainland, storm Kara developed into a hurricane today as it sped eastward into the Atlantic after passing up a predicted landfall along North Carolina's Outer Banks.

Kara began growing early today after ending a drifting maneuver that had stalled its progress toward the mainland, and became a hurricane shortly before dawn.

The National Hurricane Center said top winds were about 75 miles an hour—minimal for a hurricane—but probably would intensify.

At 6 a.m., the hurricane was near Latitude 32 north, Longitude 73.5 west or about 250 miles south-southeast of Cape Hatteras and about 500 miles west of Bermuda.

Kluth President

AAL Branch Re-Elects Officers at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Officers were re-elected Sunday night at the annual meeting of the Aid Association for Lutherans, Branch 496, at the St. Martin Lutheran Church.

They are Vernon Kluth, president; Charles Mack, vice president; Milton Boehlke, treasurer, and Mrs. Roy Kurchner, secretary. Election of national officers followed.

The branch voted to again donate $5 to five charitable organizations. The scholarship fund was discussed and it was voted to divide $200 among the eligible students. It also was agreed to again sponsor the annual picnic and the annual confirmation recognition.

The organization will sponsor a family film night for the St. Martin congregation after the Christmas season and before Lent. An offering will be taken and the officers will decide how it will be used in the school.

A chalk talk was given by the Rev. James Olson, a Neenah pastor. The chalk talk picture done by him was framed and will be given to the church council to decide where it should be hung.

The next federation convention will be at the Green Bay Arena, and those wishing to attend are asked to contact the secretary for tickets.

Two films were shown, "Switzerland" and "Nature's Strangest Creatures."

several other businesses would benefit from another hydrant in that area, the people concerned should be contacted and a special meeting called soon.

Telephone Cable

Rod Dallman and Merlin Wieg, representing the Plymouth office of General Telephone Company presented preliminary plans for installation of underground cable along the west side of State 57 and along Calumet Street in the village and extending under Calumet Street along the east side of Fourth Street.

No objections were made, however several trustees said they felt the company, which had known of the plans since spring should have been more considerate and allowed more time to look into the matter. After final blue prints are approved by the village the work is expected to be done this fall.

Payment Reduced

A reduction of almost $4,000 in the October payment of the state income tax apportionment of $6,924, compared with $10,786 last year, called for some tightening of the village purse strings. The League of Municipalities explained that because the percentage figured in September by the state is based on the April 15 tax returns, Hilbert's apportionment percentage is lower this year than last. The total income of the state as a whole increased to larger degree than in the village. Because the state was using a higher percentage on the first payment in June figured on last year's income percentage, a $3,000 over payment was made. Mrs. Arthur Pruess, village treasurer, pointed out that while the figures sounded higher there actually had only been a reduction of about $1,000. Other receipts included $838 liquor tax and $3,993 state aid for streets.

An allowance of $1,000 was made to the Volunteer Fire Department for the purchase of water hose.

Other Action

In other action the board: —Agreed to have legal counsel draw up an ordinance covering unnecessary noise and nuisances to be acted on at the next meeting. —Learned that tax for the vocational technical school had increased from $4,698 to $4,811. —Allowed Ernest Pitzten to attend a meeting Nov. 6 in Green Bay concerning duty at water plant. —Set next meeting back one day to Nov. 12 because of Veterans Day. —Agreed to investigate the purchase of crushed stone at $1.35 a yard. —Was invited to attend the Chamber of Commerce sponsored informational meeting on a low rent housing project for the elderly, Thursday evening.

May, had lost in a close voice vote. Esler had previously indicated he supported such a delay.

Wussow said the safety building should be delayed in consideration of Gov. Warren Knowles' request for a cutback in capital outlays to help right inflation.

V. A. Verhulst, jail inspector for the state division of corrections, told the board he did not believe the construction moratorium applied to projects already started. He added he also did not know if the order to correct the county's jail facilities could be vacated. That, he said, would have to be determined at a higher level.

Hiler also objected to any delay. He said it would be four months before they were ready to advertise for bids on the project and the board could still stop the building at that time.

A time table provided by Sauter Seaborne Ltd., architects for the projects, lists Feb. 15 as a tentative date for advertising for bids and March 11 for the bid opening.

Estimated construction start is April 1 with a potential completion time of June, 1971.

Current jail plans are for a three-story building constructed between the courthouse and courthouse annex to house the jail, sheriff's department and courtroom.

Burglars Enter Safe

$3,300 Taken at Xavier

The loss in an early morning burglary and safe cracking at Xavier High School has been estimated at $3,300.

Appleton detectives said entry into the school apparently was gained through a rear door that was ajar.

A burglar or burglars, once inside, smashed a glass partition and crawled over a counter to enter the main office.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to enter the walk-in safe by drilling a small hole in its door in an apparent attempt to get at the lock mechanism. When this failed, burglars, using a drill, punch and hammer, knocked a 12-by-18-inch hole through the safe's 5 1/2-inch cement block wall. The $3,300 was on shelves inside the safe. Nothing else in the school was disturbed, detectives said. They found two small punches and a drill bit at the scene, but burglars apparently took the rest of their tools, detectives explained.

The burglary was reported to police by a janitor about 5:30 a.m. today. Police said the school was occupied until about 11 a.m. Tuesday.

Police said "professionals" evidently were involved.

Courthouse Parking Problem

Days of Lawn and Roses

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Grass won another victory. Roses will continue to bloom and Outagamie County Board members will continue to walk a block to their meetings.

The latest effort to convert the courthouse lawn into an asphalt parking lot met only a slightly kinder fate than previous attempts — it was referred back to committee for study.

In place of a parking lot, the county board will ask Appleton to widen the streets in the courthouse vicinity to provide more parking spaces.

Acute Problem

The parking problem around the courthouse has been acute for many years with employees and the public vying for the few on-street spaces within convenient walking distance. Off-street parking is available for about 70 cars and that lot usually is filled before 8 a.m.

Much of the area immediately around the courthouse is limited to two-hour parking to keep space available for the public. But, as County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler noted, county employees still occupy those spaces and the morning and afternoon coffee breaks have turned into car moving breaks.

The plans, proposed by Esler, were to leave about 40 feet of lawn immediately in front of the courthouse. Sixty feet would be paved with asphalt to accommodate 31 cars, at a cost of about $15,000. Four on-street stalls would be lost to provide an entrance and exit to the lot.

The flower bed and one tree would be lost. The flag pole would be moved.

The assault on the asphalt was led by Supv. G. Allen Bubolz, chairman of the parks committee. "When will we be happy?" he asked "When the whole area is asphalt and concrete?"

He urged the board to vote down the proposal "if for no other reason than esthetics. Let's keep our green."

Three in Custody

Preliminary Hearing Set in Marijuana Case

CHILTON — Calumet County Judge D. H. Sehora granted preliminary hearings for Thomas Crawford, his wife, Paullette, and Loyal Ketola, who all list their addresses as California, when they appeared this morning in County Court to answer charges stemming from a raid Saturday that produce a marijuana cache valued between $8,000 and $10,000.

The hearing is set at 9:30 a.m. Oct. 24. Crawford and his wife's cases will be consolidated along with Ketola's. The Crawford's have two charges against them, one of use of marijuana for smoking purposes, and the second, possession of dangerous drugs. Bond was continued at $1,000 each on each charge.

Ketola is charged with use of marijuana for smoking purposes. His bond was continued at $1,000.

Classes Out Early

STOCKBRIDGE — Classes will be dismissed at 1:30 p.m. Friday at the public schools here for joint teacher in-service with Hilbert, scheduled from 2 to 5 p.m. according to Supt. Donald Meyers.

Supvs. Mrs. Barbara Steger and Pat Heenan urged that available properties in the area be purchased, even piecemeal, to get the necessary space. Heenan said "the time may come when we have to forget beauty, but we should take pride in what we have."

A number of scattered properties around the courthouse have been offered the county, including at one time, much of one entire block.

Supvs. Charles Wussow and Eugene Kloes backed parking on the lawn.

Wussow, an advocate of moving the courthouse, said if properties were purchased and the courthouse later moved, "only a blighted area would be left."

Kloes said the county "couldn't afford a big empty lot with roses."

Supv. Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, suggested the board take a constructive look at the parking situation. He reminded them that while they may add 30 spaces in front they would lose 70 in the rear when the jail is built.

Kimberly Supv. Robert Weyenberg, noting some of the supervisors complaining because they had to walk a block or more to get to Tuesday's meeting, suggested his own solution to the problem. Meet at night.

State Issues Edict

Hilbert Gets Order To Halt Pollution Of Spring Creek

HILBERT — As a result of evidence presented at a June 9 conference conducted by the State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) in Manitowoc, the village was issued an abatement order Tuesday declaring the existence of pollution of Spring Creek a tributary of the Manitowoc River and the necessity of abatement.

The order calls for submission to the department an engineering report and time schedule for construction of improvements to the sewage treatment plant, either separately, or jointly with Cold Springs Cheese Company, route 1, Hilbert, in accord with recommendations of the Lake Michigan enforcement conference. A copy of a similar order to the cheese factory was enclosed.

Other requirements are to submit an engineers report and time schedule for eliminating or treating excess clear waters tributary to the sewage treatment plant by April 1, 1970.

Disinfect Effluent
The order further states the village must provide continuous disinfection of the effluent from its sewage treatment plant beginning April 1, 1970 in accord with plans approved by the department. Upon receipt of approval of the report and schedules the department will issue an amended order estimating on appropriate timetable for completion of construction of the required facilities.

Village officials at the council meeting Tuesday night noted that the provision of continuous

Progress Reported to Council

Recreation Building, Swim Pool At Brillion to be Ready for Summer

BRILLION — A community recreation building and swimming pool progress report revealed to the city council Monday that work will be accelerated so that the facility will be ready next summer.

Ground breaking for the $800,000 complex occurred in late April, and soon after A. J. Despines and Son Construction Co., Green Bay, began work. Construction was to have been completed in a year. Recent delays due to required sand blasting of exterior walls slowed up other phases of progress, Carl Despines told aldermen Monday.

Construction can be expedited now that the sand blasting work is "running smooth," he said. Jeff Nichols, the architect, said a work schedule chart will be submitted to the city next week so that construction progress can be followed.

Other contractors represented at the meeting were August Winter and Sons, Appleton; Mikolec Electric Co., Manitowoc; and Dick Oudenhoven Construction Co., Kaukauna.

No parking signs will be erected on the north side of Center Street from Main Street to Columbus Avenue, as recommended by the police and fire committee. The move will help eliminate vehicular congestion near the recreation building.

A bartenders license was okayed for Milton Wilke.

Curb, gutter and sidewalk will be removed across from the recreation building to clear the way for in-and-out driveways for a parking lot. Sommers Construction Co., Shiocton, will do the work for $200.

Assessments for curb, gutter and sidewalk construction were approved by the council following a public hearing. Opposition to a $238 assessment to the Chicago and North Western Railway was heard from the firm's legal counsel. The city council was unsympathetic to the opposition "because the railway company does benefit due to the added safety realized from the curb, gutter and sidewalk installations."

The city's tax levy for the area vocational and technical school is $22,336, it was reported.

City Clerk Ellen Radloff reported that $46,511 had been received for income tax apportionment, down from about $58,000 last year at this time.

Secret Meeting Blamed For Killing Safety Building

2 City Supervisors Seek Investigation of Alleged Illegal Session on Project

Dist. Atty. James Long has been asked by two Outagamie County Board supervisors to investigate a possible secret meeting held by the board's public properties committee Sept. 15 at which lease terms for a joint safety building were discussed with an Appleton alderman.

Supvs Eugene Kloes and Nick Karras, both of Appleton, charged Tuesday that it was the tee did not submit the normal voucher request for pay for that meeting and that no minutes of the meeting had been filed in the county clerk's office.

Supv. Joseph DeBruin, Town of Buchanan, defended the committee's action, saying, "Any committee chairman can call any meeting he wants without notifying The Post-Crescent."

A motion by Karras to have the board instruct the public properties committee to "properly contact the city" lost in a voice vote. A request for a roll call vote by Kloes was rejected by board chairman Sylvester Esler, Appleton.

Earlier, Esler ruled that a motion by Supv. Charles Wusow, Appleton, to delay all action on the jail until next result of that meeting that joint safety building negotiations were killed.

Kloes said they were informed by the district attorney he would check into the legality of the Sept. 15 meeting within the next few days.

Paper Not Told
Supv. Jerome Hiler, Appleton, chairman of the public properties committee, said, on the board floor that he did not give notice of the Sept. 15 meeting to The Post-Crescent. "I suppose it was secret from that standpoint," he said. "But, I feel the meeting was legal."

The contention by Kloes and Karras is that Appleton rejected a decision ultimatum given by the county board because of the way the issue was handled by the county and that the city was not properly informed of county board action.

On Sept. 10, the county board gave the city a deadline of noon Sept. 18 to declare whether it was still interested in leasing space in a planned safety building.

Too Costly
Ald. John Ayers (12th), who had been acting as the city's spokesman, recommended to the city's board of public works the lease proposal be rejected because of the projected costs.

The cost figures cited by Ayers allegedly came from the Sept. 15 public properties committee meeting. Appleton did not formally reply to the county by the deadline time.

Karras contended the public properties committee had no authority to propose lease conditions to the city and the actions taken by the committee should be declared void. He said he wanted a determination if the Sept. 15 meeting was illegal.

Kloes also noted the committee

On Sept. 10, the county board gave the city a deadline of noon Sept. 18 to declare whether it was still interested in leasing space in a planned safety building.

Too Costly
Ald. John Ayers (12th), who had been acting as the city's spokesman, recommended to the city's board of public works the lease proposal be rejected because of the projected costs.

The cost figures cited by Ayers allegedly came from the Sept. 15 public properties committee meeting. Appleton did not formally reply to the county by the deadline time.

Karras contended the public properties committee had no authority to propose lease conditions to the city and the actions taken by the committee should be declared void. He said he wanted a determination if the Sept. 15 meeting was illegal.

No Minutes Filed
Kloes also noted the committee

did not submit the normal voucher request for pay for that meeting and that no minutes of the meeting had been filed in the county clerk's office.

Supv. Joseph DeBruin, Town of Buchanan, defended the committee's action, saying, "Any committee chairman can call any meeting he wants without notifying The Post-Crescent."

A motion by Karras to have the board instruct the public properties committee to "properly contact the city" lost in a voice vote. A request for a roll call vote by Kloes was rejected by board chairman Sylvester Esler, Appleton.

Earlier, Esler ruled that a motion by Supv. Charles Wusow, Appleton, to delay all action on the jail until next result of that meeting that joint safety building negotiations were killed.

Kloes said they were informed by the district attorney he would check into the legality of the Sept. 15 meeting within the next few days.

Paper Not Told
Supv. Jerome Hiler, Appleton, chairman of the public properties committee, said, on the board floor that he did not give notice of the Sept. 15 meeting to The Post-Crescent. "I suppose it was secret from that standpoint," he said. "But, I feel the meeting was legal."

The contention by Kloes and Karras is that Appleton rejected a decision ultimatum given by the county board because of the way the issue was handled by the county and that the city was not properly informed of county board action.
